

5-GALLON PER WEEK GAS LIMIT ORDERED; RATIONING IN GEORGIA TO BEGIN MAY 15

HAPPY MEETING—Lily Pons, dainty French opera star, was greeted at the Terminal station yesterday by Andre Kostelanetz, the Russian orchestra conductor, whom she married four years ago. She is here to sing the title role in "The Daughter of the Regiment" tonight. Third in the reunion was Shun-Lo, newly from China. His name means "Victory" in Chinese. (Story on Page 9.)

'Meal Ticket' System To Be Used; Applies In 17 Eastern States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
WASHINGTON, April 22.—A "meal-ticket" system of gasoline rationing, with average motorists allowed from 2½ to 5 gallons a week, will be instituted by the government in 17 eastern states, including Georgia, and the District of Columbia May 15, it was disclosed today.

The Office of Price Administration announced the plan was a temporary stop-gap pending establishment of "a more elaborate and comprehensive coupon rationing system" about July 1.

Automobile owners will be issued gasoline rationing cards during a three-day registration period beginning May 12. Operators of trucks and other motor vehicles "easily recognized as commercial vehicles" will not be required to obtain ration cards and their purchases of gasoline will not be restricted.

Appeals To Be Allowed.
OPA said the ration cards would resemble meal or commutation tickets and would contain seven squares, each representing a unit of gasoline the ticketholder would be entitled to buy any time between May 15 and July 1. The number of gallons in each "unit" will be announced shortly before May 15 and may be changed later, depending upon the supply situation.

Service station attendants will tear off, mark or punch a square for each unit of gasoline delivered to a ration cardholder.

Taking effect on the eve of the summer vacation season, the plan will permit only a bare margin of luxury driving and will force motorists to choose between using their automobiles for vacation trips or daily transportation.

Limit Will Be Set.
Supplemental cards, providing increased allowances of gasoline, will be issued upon application to doctors, war workers, and others whose work require mileage greater than that permitted under the basic rationing allowance.

Registrants may appeal hardship cases to local rationing boards, and obtain additional allowances on proof of need.

The ration allowance of 2 1/2 to 5 gallons a week for ordinary motorists would be far below the average consumption of gas by passenger cars in the past. The

Vichy Staff In Washington Revolts; 5 Quit

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP) The revolt in French official quarters here against the collaborationist policy of Pierre Laval flared up anew late today when Etienne Burin des Roziers, second secretary at the French embassy, handed his resignation to Ambassador Gaston Henry-Haye.

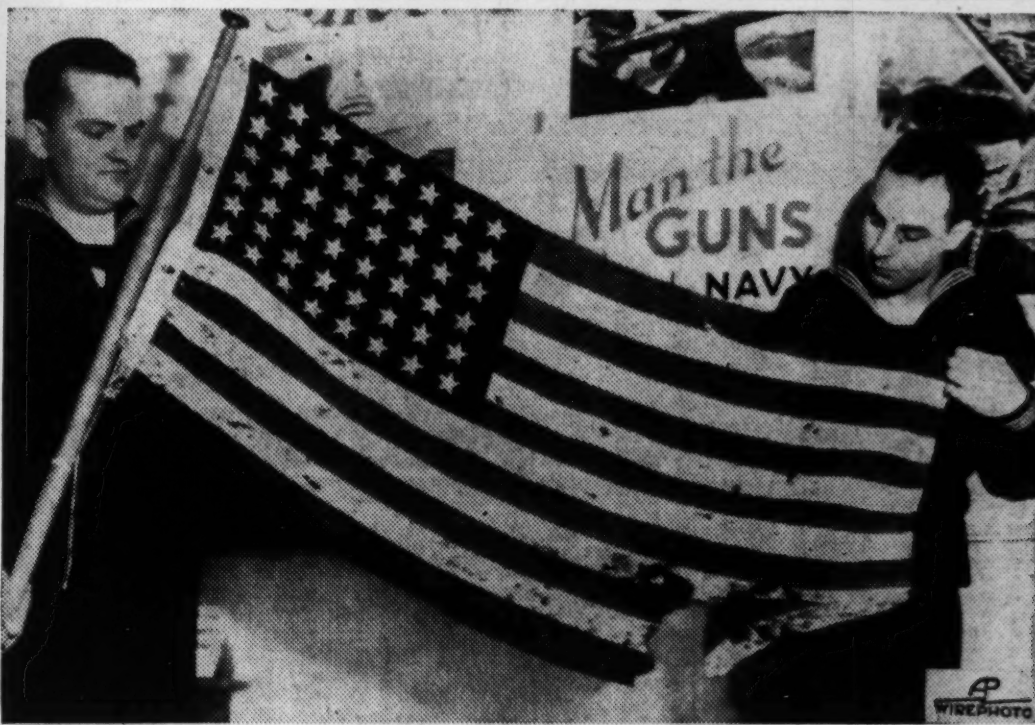

He was the fifth member of the French embassy and consular staff to quit in protest. Earlier this afternoon, the embassy counselor, Leon Marchal, followed up his resignation by appearing at Free French headquarters here and announcing his loyalty to the cause headed by General Charles de Gaulle.

Describing Laval as "the man appointed by Germany to rule France in the interest of the invader," Marchal bitterly repudiated the collaborationist leader's appeal for the support of Frenchmen.

Flays Germans.
"It is hard to believe," he said, "that on the very day when new hostages fell before the German firing squads a French voice should have absolved the aggressor of the crime of having brought about the war, in order to praise the most barbarous regime Europe has known since the start of Christianity, and in order to advocate a policy of confidence toward a country which has constantly betrayed all its promises and which knows no law other than that of brute force."

Secretary of State Hull did not comment specifically on the resignations, saying he had just

BATTLE-SCARRED—This oil-stained American flag was flying proudly from a captain's gig in Pearl Harbor when the Japs staged their surprise raid, and was torn from its staff when bombs began falling. Lieutenant Commander Fred Welden retrieved it from the bay and sent it to a brother in Iowa. Holding the flag are L. E. White, left, and Clyde E. Wilson, yeoman in the naval recruiting office in Kansas City.

'Sunsets Are Unsurpassed . . . ' Latest Word From Corregidor

The following story of life on Corregidor Island in Manila Bay is an official dispatch to the War Department from the headquarters of Lieutenant General Wainwright and was released by the War Department:

CORREGIDOR, P. I., April 22. Constant bombing from the skies and cross-fire of heavy artillery from Batuan and Cavite have failed to dampen the fighting spirit of the men on the island. The morale of the men is high in spite of pounding bombs and shells. They are carrying on in the best American tradition. They find time for a great deal of joking, entertainment and amusement, despite the fact that there are no movies, dances, baseball games, drug stores, clubs, parks or parties on Corregidor.

The limited stocks of food are being conserved and rationed. Nevertheless each soldier gets enough to eat, good, simple food, but nourishing. Men find plenty to do when not manning guns or on watch. Some of them are affecting beards, for the razor blades are running short. Old issues of magazines and newspapers are read and re-read until they are literally all worn out. Books at the post library are in great demand and even the duller, technical volumes are showing signs of wear.

Playing cards seem to be endowed with some sort of immortality and despite almost constant use are in good condition, with even the name from solitaire to blackjack being played. Home-

Auditorium Packed For Rossini 'Barber' Georgian Gets 3 Citations as Destroyer Hero

By EUGENIA BRIDGES HARTY.
Atlanta music patrons, including subscribers to the All-Star Concert Series, filled the municipal auditorium to capacity last night when the Atlanta Music Club presented the Metropolitan Opera Company in Rossini's "The Barber of Seville" as the final attraction for its season ticket holders.

Neely Is Named Head of WPB's Regional Board

Frank Neely, Atlanta businessman and civic leader, yesterday was named chief of the Atlanta regional board of the War Production Board, it became known last night.

The appointment, made in Washington by Donald M. Nelson, head of WPB, will probably take all of Neely's time from his personal business, those close to the organization pointed out.

Neely, who is executive vice president and secretary of Rich's, Inc., is a member of the City Planning Commission and chairman of the board of the Sixth Federal Reserve district, which comprises the area covered by the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank.

He is a graduate of Georgia Tech and last year was awarded the medal given annually to a Tech alumnus who has achieved outstanding distinction. As chief of the Atlanta regional office of the WPB, Neely will succeed A. D. McIntyre, who has been acting chief. The local regional WPB office covers Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee, North and South Carolina.

FRANK H. NEELY.

The opera was the second given by the Met in Atlanta this week. "Carmen" having opened the season Tuesday night. The last in the three-day season will be Donizetti's "The Daughter of the Regiment" tonight, starring Lily Pons, famous coloratura soprano, and Salvatore Baccaloni, who made his Atlanta debut last night while stealing the show.

Tonight's performance starts at 8 o'clock sharp. Good seats are still available. Frank St. Leger again will conduct.

Tonight's opera was, as destined, a gala evening, one to which music lovers had been looking forward all season, and for many good reasons. Salvatore Baccaloni, the great basso-buffo, made a spectacular debut in the role of "Dr. Bartolo." Bidu Sayao, the charming little Brazilian soprano, sang here for the first time in opera, portraying Rossini's heroine, "Rosina." Norman Cordon, the tall North Carolina basso, handled the capacious "Don Basilio" part, originally programmed as Ezio Pinza. Bruno Landi, as the "Count of Almaviva," made his local bow, as did Irma Petina, the tiny Russian mezzo-soprano, as

Commando Invades In Carpet Slippers

Following is an eye-witness story of the British Commando raid on the Boulogne area of the occupied French coast written by a British correspondent for Reuters and the Associated Press:

By ALAN HUMPHREYS.
LONDON, April 22.—"Hasten!" This was the only word spoken by the torch-swinging German forming a one-man patrol—the first to challenge the Commandos—during their two-hour reconnaissance excursion near Boulogne early today.

Tommyguns spat. The torch went out. We heard no more. Veiled in night mist, the British craft crept silently inshore. The Commandos plopped into the shallows and waded to the beach.

They were wearing action make-up—blackface. All wore sneakers except one officer who had a pair of carpet slippers kept in place with elastic. As he clambered over the side he muttered: "I intend to invade France in comfort."

While we were off the beach searchlights flickered nervously. The Nazis were showing signs of disquiet. As we advanced, we could hear whistles but instead of being met by machinegun fire the Commandos covered several hundred yards to the safety of sand dunes at the top of the beach without incident.

Then there was action—but the Commandos were not involved. It was the naval forces of light

Blanket Order Freezing All Prices Seen

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP) A blanket freezing of virtually all prices at last month's levels probably will be proclaimed next Tuesday as part of the administration's drastic anti-inflation program, authoritative sources said today.

The price order, affecting retail, wholesale and factory prices, is to be announced by Administrator Leon Henderson, these sources said.

This would follow immediately upon the announcement by President Roosevelt of his comprehensive curbs for rising prices, expected next Monday. The price order would be a vital part of this program and represents abandonment of the technique of controlling prices by individual items, which many consider a failure, in favor of the plan advocated by Bernard Baruch, head of the War Industries Board in World War I.

The blanket price order would "all consumer goods with the probable exception of food, it was authoritatively learned, and would permit sellers to charge the highest price which they charged in March but no higher.

The President placed the final formulation of his program ahead of all but the most necessary war tasks and instructed his secretaries to hold his appointments to a minimum—those of a "must" nature only—so that all the time possible could be devoted to what obviously is one of the most important statements of his more than nine years in the White House.

Appropriations Cut To Balance Fulton Budget

All appropriations over which county commissioners have control, except those to the Department of Public Welfare, Battle Hill Sanitarium and Grady hospital, will be cut 25 per cent in order to balance the county budget, it was explained yesterday.

According to the report of County Auditor James L. Respass, there is now an anticipated budgetary deficiency of $390,000. Unforeseen increases in revenue will be divided among county departments and, if possible, reduced appropriations to private agencies will be restored.

Among those affected are charitable and emergency relief groups, such as the Community Chest, Red Cross, Home for Incurables, Florence Crittenton Home and the Old Ladies' Home. Approximately $75,000 has been appropriated for these agencies.

At a recent meeting of the commissioners, the suggestion was made that all of the county's relief work should be handled by the county's department of public welfare.

Dr. Buchman Keeps Hat on—Mouth Shut

By LAMAR Q. BALL.
With a beatific expression of the Perfect Happiness on his face, Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, spiritual founder and world leader of the Oxford Group, sat on the terrace of the Biltmore hotel yesterday munching pleasantly at the morsels he had negotiated at a smorgasbord.

The doctor had done right well in providing for himself at the table where food was spread for all comers. He had emerged from the elbowing contest with a platter of choice fried chicken, some sizeable dab of this and that and a heaping dessert plate full of the most claret-colored of the six delicious flavors.

The doctor came out of the food gathering derby looking a bit tired and worn. He's past 60, at an age when a man really needs a waiter at his elbow. He revived like a watered flower, however, as he tore into the deliciously browned old-fashioned southern fried chicken—the third or fourth piece of white breast meat gave him the air of one prepared to take things as they come. When he gripped his knife to butter the steaming hot rolls, he did it with the assurance of a warrior testing the keenness of his blade. And at the end of this pleasant lunch the doctor looked about him in quest of one of those modern miracles he has been espousing as the only solution to world happiness—a 100 per cent international get-together.

On the doctor's left sat Mrs. John M. Slaton, the socially notable wife of a former Governor and the lineal descendant of a family that has sculptured cultural history in Georgia for the last several generations.

On the doctor's right sat Mrs. Thomas K. Glenn, wife of one of Atlanta's leading bankers, herself a notable leader in Atlanta art circles.

Mrs. Glenn and Mrs. Slaton were talking to him. The doctor listened amiably. He sat there, nibbling at stray morsels, with his hat on at a luncheon table.

All the other male guests at the smorgasbord, outdoors in the sun on the Biltmore veranda, had removed their hats. Many of them were just as bald as the leader of the Oxford Group.

The doctor's hat not only remained on, but it was jammed defiantly down over his ears. Paul Seydel, a well-known Atlanta chemist and an experienced practitioner of everything that is au fait, was approached by a reporter.

"Are they wearing hats at smorgasbords this year?"

Mr. Seydel squirmed about and viewed the pontifical doctor, relaxed under a spell of the happiness which can be developed only from a clear conscience, the presence of congenial society and a

Public Barred In Effort To Check Fires

All national forests in the southern Appalachian mountains have been closed to the public, Joseph C. Kirchner, regional forester, announced here yesterday as 1,000 men continued to battle two big blazes and a score of small ones on federal property. The forests cover 5,250,000 acres.

Meanwhile at Asheville, N. C., Nantahala forest officials announced the arrest by the FBI of three persons in connection with a three-day series of 23 fires earlier this month. The fires in that section destroyed 4,068 acres of national forest land, cut several communities from electric service and interfered with the operation of a copper mine and two dams.

The three men arrested were listed in an FBI report as James Henry Martin 18, and William A. Barnes, 19, of Hiwassee Ga., and Hugh Plott, 35, of Young Harris, Ga. They are being held in the jail at Bryson City, N. C.

Fires in Virginia.
Fred Pederson, Virginia State forester, reported last night that forest fires in southwest Virginia had burned over approximately 12,000 acres.

He said approximately 200 firefighters were "having a terrible time" trying to stop a blaze which started in the Kimberling creek section Sunday, crossed state highway 21 between Bland Courthouse and Bluefield, and kept going.

Other fires in the Bland section included one in the Big Ridge area, and along the Virginia-Kentucky border in Lee county, Virginia, in the Cranks creek section.

Reports from Lee county said power lines serving the Benedict coal mine were cut by flames and could not be immediately repaired.

Continued mild weather is expected in the Atlanta area today, Glen Jefferson, regional meteorologist, said yesterday. He said today should be almost a duplicate of yesterday.

Yesterday's maximum temperature was 75 degrees, Jefferson said, and the minimum 51.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP)—The aircraft industry built 1,750,000,000 worth of planes, engines and propellers in 1941, Colonel John H. Joutet, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, announced today. This more than tripled the 1940 production figure.

"Despite the immensity of the continuing plant expansion and labor training jobs," Colonel Joutet added, "our aircraft companies are keeping up to or ahead of the schedules laid down by the government."

SCHOOL HOLIDAY.

Men 45 to 65 Will Register This Weekend

100 Stations To Be Open Saturday Through Monday.

Men from 45 to 65 aren't going to have any trouble registering this weekend in Fulton and DeKalb counties, local draft boards believe. They have provided adequate facilities at many points. The draft boards announced through State Selective Service headquarters that almost 100 registration stations will be available Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The registration officially was scheduled for Monday, but local boards have provided facilities for all three days in the hopes of eliminating any "bottle-necks."

An estimated 13,000,000 in the nation and 260,000 in Georgia will register. All men who have had their forty-fifth birthday on or before February 16 and have not attained their sixty-fifth on or before April 27, 1942, must register this time.

The registration is an occupational census of America's older manpower. Brigadier General Simon B. Hawkins, of State Selective Service headquarters, pointed out. Those who register this time are not eligible for military service, he stated.

Fulton Board No. 3 will take care of transients of all three days. Registration places and hours follow:

Gibson Sees Peril If Labor Groups Merge

Congressman Urges Passage of His Bill Regulating Units.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP)—Representative Gibson, of Georgia, asserts that if the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organization reunite, then this "democracy will fold up" unless congress takes steps for the "protection of American workmen and American people."

Gibson's assertion was made last night in a radio address in which he urged passage of his bill (H. R. 6777) to regulate labor organizations.

"There are from day to day efforts exerted looking to the amalgamation of the two great labor organizations," he said. "Let this occur... without the protection of the American workmen and the American people the proposed amendment provides and you will see democracy and our government taken over by the leadership of the great labor organization so set in existence."

The Georgia congressman declared it was possible for such a united labor organization to get 20,000,000 members and raise a half-billion dollars annually in dues.

"And as in the past," Gibson said, "this money could be used most conveniently for promoting a national political campaign in 1944 with a $1,000,000,000 campaign fund or for any other purpose to which unscrupulous or unwise labor leaders may appropriate this money."

Dance Pageant At Agnes Scott

"Americana" is the name given to Agnes Scott's 1942 May Day pageant, to be staged in the college outdoor theater May 2. It was announced yesterday by the student committee.

Developing the patriotic theme, the dance-pageant will feature sequences showing typical scenes from all sections of the country. Anne Chambliss, of Atlanta, reigning over the performance as May Queen, will personify the spirit of America. The cast will include some 75 student dancers.

The pageant will be produced from a scenario written by Myree Wells, of Atlanta, a senior, and will be under the direction of Eugenie Dozier and Llewellyn Wilburn, of the school's physical education department.

VALDOSTA REVIVAL.

Sugar Rationing To Begin May 5; 'Chiselers' Warned

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP)—Sugar rationing will start Tuesday, May 5. Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced today, warning that the government would "hit chiselers, and hit them hard and fast."

NEAT PACKAGE—The gorgeous gamb of Paulette Goddard arrived in Washington yesterday all tied up in red ribbons. The new idea in shoes—or is it shoe-strings?—consists of ballet slippers with high heels and bindings that extend all the way to the knees.

Gasoline

American Automobile Association reported this average was 55 gallons a month, or more than 12 gallons a week, during 1941.

In 1940, passenger cars consumed an average of 653 gallons a year, trucks 1,107 gallons and buses 5,036 gallons. The average for all vehicles in that year was 742 gallons.

Because of transportation shortages as a result of tanker sinkings, curtailment of gasoline supplies in the east now is "so severe that supplying passenger cars on a first-come, first-served basis is obviously inadequate," Price Administrator Leon Henderson declared.

Cites Need for Speed. "Every day's delay in instituting a rationing plan spells injustice for the consumer as well as inefficiency for our war effort. That is why an interim plan, one that is simple and can be put into effect within three weeks, is imperative."

OPA said simplicity of the plan was demonstrated by the fact that motorists need only present automobile registration cards to obtain ration cards. Owners of more than one car will be allowed a card for each automobile.

The ration allowances will be figured on the basis of a total ration for the 45-day period be-

Final details for the registration of household consumers at grade schools May 4-7, inclusive, were made public in a formal rationing order which provides half a pound of sugar a week for each person during the first eight weeks of rationing.

A 50 per cent cut in sugar use by restaurants and other food services was decreed. Other commercial and institutional users—bakers, bottlers, confectioners, ice cream and dairy products manufacturers and the like—will get 70 per cent of their 1941 consumption.

Canning Restrictions. The wholesale, retail, industrial and institutional sugar purchasers will register April 28 and 29 at high schools throughout the country.

Restrictions were set on the amount of sugar which could go into each can of packed fruits and vegetables and other foods, but no limitation was placed on the total amount of 1942 food crops which may be packed.

One adult from each family may apply for war ration books for every adult and child in the family.

Stamp No. 1 will authorize its holder to buy one pound of sugar during the period May 5-16; stamp No. 2 will be valid May 17-30; No. 3, May 31-June 13, and No. 4, June 14-June 27.

Violations Punishable. The amount purchasable with each stamp after June 27 will be announced later. It may remain the same, be increased or lowered, depending upon the supply.

Henderson issued a reminder that violations were punishable by a maximum fine of $10,000 and imprisonment of one year. Further, violators may be required to surrender all their stamps and in the case of retail, wholesale and industrial consumers, sugar purchase certificates may be withdrawn and the violator prohibited from getting any other materials subject to ration or allocation.

"A few chiselers can do a great deal of harm both to the operation of rationing and to the morale of the nation," Henderson said. "The country is in no mood to let chiselers get away with it. Our policy will be to hit chiselers, and hit them hard and fast."

Between May 1 and July 1, OPA explained, officials declined to estimate the probable allowance for each automobile, but it was understood the amount would not exceed an average of five gallons a week and might be as low as 2 1/2 gallons, depending upon the supply picture at the time the figure is officially set.

Owners of motorcycles will be allotted a smaller amount of gasoline than automobile owners, but small-size motor cars will receive the same gallonage as larger automobiles.

17 States Affected. Owners of inboard motorboats not used commercially also will be required to obtain ration cards, while a normal supply of gasoline will be allowed for other non-highway purposes, including outboard motorboats, farm tractors, gasoline engines, stoves and furnaces and cleaning establishments. In such cases, however, owners will be required to sign a declaration that the gasoline will not be used on highways.

Automobile owners driving from states outside of the rationing area into the rationing area may obtain ration cards upon presentation of their registration certificates at the local rationing board nearest the border.

States in which gasoline will be rationed are Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia.

On Capitol Hill, Senator Downey, Democrat, Cal., said Americans might as well plan on doing a lot more walking and predicted better health and fewer traffic snarls as a result.

"Reasonable walking is certainly no hardship," he told the Senate Military Affairs Committee, which is considering his bill to authorize the President to requisition any private automobile.

"I can offer my own testimonial to that effect. I find my own vitality and capacity to work is increased by walking to and from the capitol instead of traveling by street car, bus or taxicab."

Jury Findings Firemen 'Burn' Are Said Full Candle at Of 'Dynamite' Both Ends

Subject of Presentments Not Disclosed by Fulton Group.

Special presentments described as containing "dynamite" will be handed down today by the Fulton county grand jury, it was indicated last night.

The subject of the presentments was not disclosed, but the April-May jury is charged with the duty of investigating county affairs. On Tuesday, the jury, in sharply worded presentments, reminded the county commissioners they were personally liable for any excess of expenditures this year over those authorized by the budget law.

Prior to that the jury had criticized the commissioners for increasing the salaries of county employees by $175,000.

Virtually all key county employees have been questioned by the jury, while Mayor Lyle, members of city council and Chief M. A. Hornsby have appeared to answer questions concerning "dives" in the city.

While the rest of the crew struggled to hitch up the hose, one fireman grabbed the other end and sped to another plug a block away.

He hooked it up, just as his companions made the connection at the first hydrant.

A bystander put out the minor blaze unassisted before the firemen could free the pressure-charged hose.

State Ordnance Facilities Are Being Inspected

$40,000,000 in Ammunition Orders Placed at Various Plants.

Colonel J. D. McIntyre, of the Birmingham ordnance office, which recently placed orders for $40,000,000 worth of ammunition in Georgia, is making an inspection tour of ordnance facilities in the state, it was announced yesterday.

The Birmingham ordnance district includes Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana.

The recent orders amounted to $138,000,000 in the five states.

Colonel McIntyre, in Atlanta yesterday, plans to visit plants at Hampton, Columbus, West Point, Toccoa, Eatonton and Griffin.

The Fourth Corps Area Ordnance Office, Wednesday issued an appeal for recruits in that branch, and announced that an office to handle applications has been opened in the showroom of the Southern Buick Company, 230 Spring street, N. W.

In announcing opening of the office, officials stressed the opportunities of obtaining technical ratings for service overseas. Recruiting is open to men between 20 and 45 years of age, who are otherwise qualified for Army duty.

Details may be obtained at the new station, or, if more convenient, at the corps area ordnance office at Fort McPherson.

Man Sentenced To Die In the Electric Chair

Mose Sims, escaped Negro convict, yesterday was sentenced by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, of Fulton superior court, to die in the electric chair on June 12, for an assault on a white woman last March 5. Sims, on the witness stand, admitted the attack.

The man who can lay a roof without "laying down" on the job is advertising in the Business Service column in the Want Ad pages of The Constitution.

Catholic Women To Meet in May

The National Council of Catholic Women will hold its annual state convention at the DeSoto hotel in Savannah May 2 and 3, with a number of prominent speakers, including Bishop Gerald P. O'Hara.

Election and installation of officers will be held May 3. Hotel reservations may be made through Mrs. Noah Garner, CH. 3553, or Mrs. Jack Leamy, VE. 3695.

Batter Tactics Of MacArthur Harrying Japs

Invaders Near Australia Are Getting Worst of Fighting.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, April 22.—(P)—The Japanese ranged off Australia are getting the worst of the fighting under the battering tactics of General Douglas MacArthur, it was reported today as an Allied communique told of another strong blow against Japanese invasion.

"I batter them" is the best description of General MacArthur's methods of aerial warfare, the Sydney Morning Herald declared. Allied forces by that means had regained the initiative in the New Guinea area, the paper added.

It was in New Guinea—at Port Moresby, which the Japanese want for an invasion base—that Allied fighter plane defenders shot down four Japanese "Zero" fighters in a raid on the port area yesterday, a communique from Allied headquarters announced.

The communique said the Port Moresby defense was brilliant. The defenders lost no planes.

The Morning Herald said the Japanese have been pinned to their island bases north of Australia and "for the first time the enemy is getting the worst of the battering."

"We know from bitter experience what that means. Japan will be forced to dispatch many more aircraft to this distant region or decide whether her advanced positions are tenable."

"Without undue optimism this is a sign of Allied recovery at one point in the vast Pacific theater and as the beginning of better things."

Oxford Group Leader Wears Hat at Luncheon

canopy of fine weather. Mr. Seydel was slow to comment.

"It's not done generally," he countered. "It all depends on the skin texture under the hat. Very probably, it would be far more comfortable for the doctor to suffer criticism for a social error than to suffer the blisters of a sunburned head. You know, this whole world is merely a world of compromise."

Photographers, aware of the presence of the Oxford Group leader, approached the table.

The doctor removed his hat only long enough to have his face recorded for posterity. Then the hat was jammed back on, over his ears defiantly.

He resumed his chat with Mrs. Glenn and Mrs. Slaton, both of whom are too gracious to be disturbed by someone who resists too much southern exposure.

The doctor's conversation was reserved yesterday only for those at his elbow.

No Interviews.

He is not being interviewed these days—in fact, his presence in Atlanta today is a complete reversal of the ballyhoo attendant on his appearance several years ago when he launched his first crusade in behalf of Moral Re-armament, the cause of the Oxford Group. Back in those days, the doctor basked in a spotlight he had adroitly focused on himself.

Today he refuses even to see the reporters he summoned hourly to his hotel apartment in the days when he was firing his first shot.

The Rt. Rev. George Algernon West, lord bishop of Rangoon Burma, who has joined the Moral Re-armament group for the duration, acted as buffer for the doctor yesterday.

"I'll see Frank and ask him," the bishop said vaguely. All the groupers call each other by their first name to a degree that has won for them the title of "The Rotary Club of Religion."

The bishop left the headquarters of the Oxford Group on the mezzanine floor of the hotel and returned promptly.

"He says," said the bishop, groping for polite and tactful expression of the idea, "he says it is his policy not to submit to interviews."

"Where is he?"

"He's downstairs at the luncheon."

"He won't let us see him?"

"No," said the bishop, "he is not being interviewed."

The doctor was found easily at the smorgasbord. He was the man with the Bangkok straw hat on, munching at chicken. He posed politely for photographers, had nothing to say for publication. Since Dr. Buchanan's last visit to Atlanta, the Oxford Group has seen stormy days in England where its policies were attacked on the floor of the house of commons. Many Englishmen announced the organization was pacifistic, many Englishmen resented the group using the name Oxford, arguing that the organization brought discredit to the famous old English university.

Has New Plan.

Buchman, American born, is back in this country today, renewing his coast-to-coast crusade for the acceptance of a new thought in religion, which, he says, places in the hands of everyone the power to mend unhappy lives and conditions.

The patriotic revue, "You Can Defend America," produced three times in Atlanta recently, was a product of the Oxford Group effort to prove itself non-pacifistic. The cast included the disciples of Buchman who have quit their jobs to battle for their new idea in brotherly love. They travel about the country, subsisting on the bounty of those who are sympathetic to their cause.

Buchman is here, traveling with the show which has been touring the south. He has a new plan of organization and several members of the group are remaining in Atlanta for some time to continue the work in the fertile fields they have plowed. The show must go on, to other cities.

But Buchman is shrouding his thoughts in secrecy today.

Election Rally Is Set Today

A pep meeting to arouse interest in the necessity of voting in the coming city, state and national elections will be held at 12:15 o'clock today in the Dinkler room of the Ansley hotel by the Junior and Senior Chambers of Commerce and the League of Women Voters, with the main address being made by Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution.

All candidates in the Governor, mayor, congressional and county commission races will be introduced to the members of the chamber, their bosses and friends. Under the slogan, "Get Out the Vote," the Junior Chamber is active in a campaign to get all voters of Fulton county re-registered for the elections.

It was pointed out that the cards, recently mailed to all voters registered in 1940, if properly filled out, would re-register a voter for the city elections, but a voter would have to re-register in person at the county courthouse to be eligible for the Governor and congressional elections. April 27 is the deadline for registering for the mayoralty race.

CRIPPS STILL HOPEFUL.

LONDON, April 22.—(P)—Sir Stafford Cripps expressed the belief today that there still was some possibility a new plan for settling India's problems could be devised before the end of the war, but said any such proposal "would have to come from India."

Pay Increases On Minds as Teachers Meet

76th Annual Session of GEA Opens Today in Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 22.—(P)—Georgia teachers began arriving here in numbers today, the eve of their 76th annual convention, with one thing uppermost in their minds: Pay hikes.

The teacher-pay problem has become increasingly acute since the outbreak of war and the Board of Education admits that public school instructors are leaving the state for better jobs in increasing numbers.

Not long ago, a committee of the Georgia Education Association requested the state board and Governor Talmadge for 25 per cent pay hikes, but were refused flatly. Since that time the tendency has been to ask for federal school aid.

Reverses Position.

Governor Talmadge, who is scheduled to address the convention tomorrow night, already has reversed his previous stand and declared that he is in favor of seeking federal financial assistance.

Another subject on the agenda of the meeting is a teacher retirement bill, which probably will be introduced at the next session of the general assembly as a result of G. E. A. committee deliberations. The measure would provide an annuity fund created by funds contributed from teachers' salaries and matched by state funds.

There is before congress now a bill to provide federal aid for schools which would set up a nationwide fund to equalize educational opportunities throughout the states. The G. E. A. is supporting the measure actively and estimates that passage of the legislation would provide some $15,000,000 annually for state schools.

Full endorsement of the bill is expected to come from State School Superintendent M. D. Collins in his address to school superintendents and local school board members at a meeting preceding the first general session.

Editor to Speak.

Theme of the convention is "Total defense and national aid to education." Herbert Agar, member of the Fight For Freedom Committee and editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, will talk on "What the War Means to America" at tomorrow night's session.

A topic that will be given increased consideration at the convention is the adult training program.

The various phases of the adult program will be discussed Friday by educators closely associated with the work. Claude Purcell, superintendent of Habersham county schools and president of the G. E. A. department of adult education, will preside.

One of those participating in the symposium will be Colonel Lester A. Webb, commanding officer of the first training battalion at Camp Wheeler, who will talk on the educational level of enlisted men in the southeastern states.

About a year ago Colonel Webb became seriously concerned with the educational deficiencies of enlisted men reaching Camp Wheeler. In an effort to eliminate these deficiencies, Colonel Webb established a training course with former high school teachers as instructors. A streamlined high school course was prepared by the Work Projects Administration. After nine months of intensive study, 37 of the 100 men taking the course stood and passed the University of Georgia's entrance examination.

Illiterates Taught.

Superintendent W. E. Knox, of the Jones county schools, will discuss the preparing of illiterates for army service. About three months ago Knox obtained the co-operation of local draft boards and launched a course for men classified as illiterates. The classes are conducted by volunteers from the Jones high school faculty. Attendance in the classes, Knox says, is 100 per cent.

All adult educational efforts, however, are not being confined to men in or destined for the armed forces. Superintendent B. A. Lancaster, of LaGrange schools, will talk on the preparation of potential industrial workers for the tasks of equipping the armed forces.

Lancaster discovered some time ago that 60 men on the WPA rolls of LaGrange, who otherwise were qualified for vocational training, had no knowledge of simple arithmetic. Teachers volunteered and Lancaster says these men soon will be able to proceed with their vocational training courses.

Other convention speakers will be Mrs. Myrtle Hooper Dahl, president of the National Education Association; Wilbur F. Murra, secretary of the National Council for Social Studies; Representative T. V. Smith, of Illinois, and Dr. Luis A. Baralt, University of Havana.

Many Sessions. Morning and evening sessions will be held daily and special departmental sections will be held for educators especially interested in geography, home economics, English, audio-visual teaching and other subjects.

President Knox Walker, of the G. E. A., will preside at the first session. Other presiding officers will be Allen C. Smith, president of the Georgia Association of School Administrators; Mrs. F. A. Long, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and John I. Allman, G. E. A. vice president.

Election of new officers will be announced at the final session Saturday morning.

CANDIDATES FACE SCHOOL QUERY

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 22.—(P)—Candidates for state and national offices in Georgia this fall are going to be asked to state their positions on matters pertaining to education, R. L. Ramsey, executive secretary of the Georgia Education Association, said today.

Ramsey, who came here in advance of the annual convention of the association which opens tomorrow, said a questionnaire would be sent to candidates when entries are all in.

Teachers will not be told how to vote but will be supplied with "facts" as related to those who aspire to public service, he said.

LaGrange Opportunity School Moves Quarters

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. LAGRANGE, Ga., April 22.—The LaGrange Opportunity School, under the direction of Mrs. J. P. Cleveland, instructor, has recently been moved from the city hall to the building formerly occupied by the Harwell Avenue school, at the corner of Harwell Avenue and Broome streets. The three rooms vacated by the school at the city hall have been occupied by staff officers of the Troup county civilian defense organization with W. H. Turner Jr., chairman.

The LaGrange Opportunity School, affiliated with the LaGrange public school system, has an enrollment of 123 students. The rooms furnished them at the new location were completely renovated and redecorated, affording more space which was sorely needed, according to officials.

Commando Raid Bares Vulnerability Of Nazi West Flank

LONDON, April 20.—(AP)—British Commandos burst through the supposedly powerful German coastal defenses about Boulogne on the Strait of Dover today, drove the German defenders back and returned with important military information and convincing proof that all the forced labor expended on Germany's far western flank has failed to make it secure.

'Mules' Worn By Commando In Latest Raid

craft which had brought the Commandos on this job.

The little ships were lying off, waiting to bring the Commandos back. They were engaged by German anti-aircraft and smaller craft. The Commandos were getting on with their assignment very quietly.

All the fireworks came from the sea. These fireworks also caught the attention of the German beach defenders.

Their suspicions had been aroused by the presence of our naval force.

They were so engrossed that the Commandos had swept across the sand and were at the beach before they met machinegun fire.

We had the initiative until the moment when we withdrew—the Germans were always fighting where they were compelled to.

We penetrated the enemy defenses over a frontage of 800 yards.

Much of the machinegun fire was enfilading the beach over the heads of our men.

As it dawned on them that a raid was being made the Germans fired a shower of Very lights.

British patrols went out and contacted enemy strong points, cutting communications and thereby preventing reinforcements being sent for.

The pillboxes had not the foggiest idea where we were and what we were doing, said one patrol leader.

It was remarkable from a military point of view that after spending two hours on enemy occupied territory every man was withdrawn with arms.

Our casualties were negligible. Unlike some Commandos, this particular unit had no geographical or regimental affinity.

There were 53 regiments represented, including the Royal Scots and the Royal Ulster Rifles.

Lofoten Raid. Many of the Commandos took part in the first Lofoten raid little over a year ago.

Lord Lovat, who commanded the raid, told them: "We were lucky. During our advance to the sand dunes we might have had to face machinegun fire."

The "we were lucky" theme was expressed by most of the men.

A 21-year-old captain from Glasgow who came through Dunkirk said:

"We ought to have been cleaned up, but we were not."

"My sergeant had a very near miss when some of their stuff fell about six inches from him."

"It was the withdrawal, like all withdrawals, which was the most difficult part of the operation."

It was the Navy which encountered the stiffest opposition.

It was the Navy which brought the Commandos to the exact spot at the exact time.

Soon after the Commandos had left, signal lights winked and then came streams of tracer bullets from all directions.

For many minutes the sky was lit up by a fierce exchange of fire between the escort craft and attacking German Flak ships and smaller craft.

Shrapnel burst all around. Navy guns barked an effective reply—so effective that in the darkness a voice shouted, "She's smoking."

Nazi Ship Affire. "She" was a German Flak ship which was sinking off, on fire.

The Naval battle in miniature ended as abruptly as it had begun.

With the "cease fire" an eerie silence and the darkness of "Commando night" descended.

Then came the rendezvous with the returning Commandos.

Slowly sweeping in the direction from which they should appear, the ships scoured the sea.

At last, against a pearly gray sea and sky of early morning came the black shapes of the landing craft.

We saw them at last clearly, still black-faced, waving and smiling with their teeth gleaming against the dusk.

Britain's task troops had come back from another task—more singeing of Hitler's moustache.

The Commandos went back to Boulogne, tragic city of the military defeat of not quite two years ago, under the direction of Lord Louis Mountbatten, the King's brilliant cousin. They accomplished the raid with very light casualties of their own, Mountbatten's communique said.

(Whether or not Lord Louis participated personally in the raid was not made known.)

Aside from whatever casualties were inflicted on the German coastal troops, two Nazi armed trawlers were knocked out by the British sea forces covering the operation.

Long before the communique was issued, watchers in the Folkestone area heard distant cannonade thundering through the mist over Dover strait from the direction of Boulogne.

Nazis Driven Back. Then came this official announcement of the first Commando raid since the assault that tied up the Nazi submarine port of St. Nazaire March 28:

"In the early hours of April 22 a small reconnaissance raid was carried out on the French coast near Boulogne."

"German troops holding this part of the coast were driven back before the advance of our troops."

"A British patrol penetrated the coastal defenses and withdrew after two hours. Casualties were very light."

"A naval force accompanying this reconnaissance engaged armed enemy trawlers. One German trawler was severely damaged and another was left on fire."

"No British ships were damaged in this engagement and naval casualties were slight."

"Tonight, many hours after the raid, the German radio made this first report of the assault on the coast."

"Early on April 22, a fairly strong British unit attempted a landing on the French coast at Boulogne."

"The attempt was frustrated by the watchfulness of the German coastal defense."

Version From Berlin. "Immediate fire from a pillbox forced the British to retreat."

"The enemy retreated to the sea under cover of artificial fog. British arms and equipment were left littered on the beach."

"The enemy suffered heavy losses and retreated without being able to accomplish his objective."

An earlier German broadcast said merely that the British had lost one speedboat in a brush with German minesweepers south of Boulogne.

Whatever the physical result, something more important than military installations seemed to have been damaged, specifically, any German confidence that the Channel position was strong enough to prevent the possible opening of a second front if the main Nazi forces are thrown against Russia later in the spring.

Boulogne is less than 30 miles from Dungeness on the English coast, and it had been naturally assumed that since that part of the coast must figure largely in any defensive scheme for northern France the Germans had strong land forces and many fighter squadrons in the area.

Thus the failure of the Germans to gather sufficient force to drive the raiders into the sea was regarded here as indicating that something was radically lacking in the Nazi defenses.

The two-hour stay also afforded the British ample time to survey German fortifications although there was no mention of demolitions in the raid.

ITS V-1 FOR VICTORY NOW—In the beginning it was "V for Victory." Now, you can see, it's "V-1 for Victory" as demonstrated by Lieutenant David P. Wheelchel and Emory University students. The college students were told about the new Naval Reserve classification at an assembly yesterday morning.

Valuable to British. This bold attack was delivered soon after Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt had taken command of all Nazi troops in northern France, and following reports that the German garrisons had been heavily reinforced from North Cape to the Bay of Biscay.

All in all, said one informed source, the raid tweaked the noses of the German high command "good and hard."

The defenses along the Boulogne coastal area, which have been frequently battered by the RAF, are comparable to others farther south and north.

These latter consist of a series of strong points along the coast, backed by blockhouses and mine fields, but the main support is believed to lie in German armored columns posted 20 to 50 miles inland.

Boulogne itself has been all but demolished by British air raids, and judged by photographs is now of little military value.

But the little seaside city means much to the British army.

Well remembered here is an old sergeant of the Ulster rifles aboard a British destroyer which evacuated part of the British Expeditionary Force from Boulogne in May, 1940.

With one arm in a sling he stood in the stern and shook his fist at German 155 shells burst into the town.

"We'll be back, you s---s," he shouted. "We'll be back!"

Birmingham Man Is Sought Here

A search by Atlanta detectives for J. C. Dixon, missing from his home in Birmingham since April 10, began yesterday.

Mrs. Dixon came to Atlanta for aid after receiving two postcards from her husband bearing Atlanta postmarks.

Dixon, she said, is about 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighs about 150 pounds and has a small moustache.

When he left home he was wearing a brown striped suit and brown shoes.

War Library Ready

Opening of a "War Information Center" was announced yesterday by Emory University. The service, located in the main library building, and known as the "Key Center of Information and Training" was established at the request of the United States Office of Education, and is under the direction of Giles Robertson, Emory reference librarian.

It will be open to the public from 9:30 a. m. until 1 p. m., from 2:30 p. m. until 5 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. until 9:30 p. m. week days, except Saturdays, when it will be open from 9:30 a. m. until noon, and from 2:30 p. m. until 4 p. m.

Purposes of the center are to maintain an extensive collection of information on the war, to provide a speakers' service on war topics and aid the speakers in obtaining current and accurate information in preparing their addresses and to act as a clearing house for schools and colleges in the Atlanta area in gathering information about civilian war activities and in reporting them to Washington.

Robertson will be assisted in operating the center by the following volunteers:

Navy V-1 Plan Is Described To Emory Men

Students Are Enthusiastic About Training for Commissions.

Three hundred Emory University students enthusiastically received details of the new Navy V-1 plan for students between 17 and 19 years of age. Lieutenant David P. Wheelchel, assistant recruiting inspector for the southeastern division, spoke to the students at a meeting in Emory chapel yesterday morning.

"The basis of the V-1 plan," Lieutenant Wheelchel explained, "is to qualify students for commissions by letting them stay in college and get the most out of their college years."

Courses in physics and mathematics, as well as a few hours of calisthenics a week, are required of V-1 students to get them ready for ship or flying training.

The V-1 plan allows students to complete two calendar years of college, Lieutenant Wheelchel said. After examinations, V-1 students are placed in V-5 for training as aviators or in V-7 for deck and engineering officers' courses. If a student is accepted for V-7, he may finish his college education, the recruiting officer pointed out.

Most college students can meet the requirements, Wheelchel declared, and parents are enthusiastic about the plan.

Many colleges and universities have been selected for the V-1 plan, and it has been received with enthusiasm wherever it has been introduced.

Valdosta To Have Expanded Bus Service

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. VALDOSTA, Ga., April 22.—Permission has been granted Valdosta Coaches, Inc., to operate a schedule between Valdosta and Twin Lakes Beach. This service is in answer to a growing demand for transportation to the summer resort. The rubber shortage has reduced automobile use to such extent it was deemed advisable to provide a regular schedule to the beach.

The tire situation is also reported to be making serious inroads on golf games at the Valdosta Country Club and already the suggestion has been made that Valdosta Coaches may extend its service to the club.

Valdosta Coaches already operates double service over designated routes in Valdosta and also to Moody Field.

Welfare Group Buys Four New Automobiles

Money Is Taken From $50,000 Old Age Fund.

The Department of Public Welfare has used part of the recent extra appropriation of $50,000 to request for old age pensions and aid to dependent children and other relief measures to purchase four new automobiles for investigators at a cost of $890 each, it developed yesterday at a meeting of Fulton county commissioners.

Welfare Director Wellborn Ellis said that investigators in rural communities had been using their own cars, but were not now eligible for new tires, and that therefore, the county had to furnish its own cars. Commissioner I. Glover Hailey denied that tires could not be obtained for this work, but said if they obtained tires for their relief work they could not use them for personal affairs.

The discussion came up when Ellis asked that a four-car garage be built for the new cars. Commissioner Ed L. Almand, chairman of the committee on buildings, said he wanted it distinctly understood he did not wish to build a garage out of funds intended for the poor. The board agreed to take workers from other construction projects to build the garage, provided materials were obtained by the Department of Public Welfare.

Dr. J. Moss Beeler, superintendent of Grady hospital, appeared before the board to request it rescind its action in deciding to hand its $87,000 appropriation for the hospital directly over to the city, instead of, as in the past, paying it to the trustees of the hospital. This would cause complications, he said, which should be further considered. The board referred the request to Commissioners Charlie Brown and Dr. C. R. Adams.

Georgian Gets 3 Citations as Destroyer Hero

Java battle, a destroyer flotilla eluded the Nipponese Navy and escaped through the Bali straits.

Again it was Commander Cooper who led the squadron. It's almost impossible to get any of the details from "Jock" because he's usually at sea with his little destroyer, but his friends in port from time to time say he typifies the best Annapolis tradition.

Most of the naval action off Java was during the hours of darkness, because the inferior United Nations forces needed this advantage badly. Commander Cooper laid his plans carefully to make the most of every opportunity, according to his friends.

It is still uncertain just what damage the United Nations fleet inflicted on the enemy, but the fact that the American squadron survived the engagement with superior forces, and then successfully slipped through the Japanese blockade, indicates that they had the situation in hand, and maneuvered with skill and bravery. Outstanding in the battle was Commander Cooper. It is a matter of record that he did his job so well that the American division commander put his flag aboard Jock's destroyer. Jock's only complaint was that he didn't sink enough enemy ships.

But his superiors have given him a tougher job to do in the Australian campaign. The reports are that he is doing it—in a way that John Paul Jones would have approved.

Public Barred In Effort To Check Fires

Fires stringing across Black mountain in that section had not approached the large Bonny Blue mine.

Kircher's executive order, first such drastic action in the southern forest region, affects the Chattahoochee National Forest, Georgia; Cherokee National Forest, Tennessee, and the Pisgah and Nantahala National Forests, North Carolina.

Vogel State Park and Fort Mountain State Park, which lie within the Chattahoochee Forest, also are included. The main highways through the forests—state and federal roads—will be open, however, it was pointed out. Woodsmen and residents in the forests will be required to obtain permits from rangers, and other forms of use and travel in the woods vital to the war effort will be restricted for a 30-day period, the ruling stated.

The largest fire already has burned 1,000 acres in the Pisgah National Forest in North Carolina, Kircher said. Four hundred men are fighting the flames, which were started Sunday.

More than 20 others were reported at Brevard, N. C., where rangers are pressing efforts to apprehend persons responsible for starting the blazes. Fishing Season. The order came at the height of the mountain trout fishing season, but Kircher pointed out that for the benefit of fishermen that the Pisgah fire already has destroyed "for the next five years fishing in some of the best streams in the land."

He continued: "Fishing, camping and picnicking are secondary to the protection of our forest areas at this time. The majority of the mature timber in these areas is now being cut to fill orders for construction of Army camps, air and Naval bases, as well as defense housing projects. At no time in the history of our country have our forests been subjected to such heavy drain, and every step must be taken to prevent any of our present supply from being destroyed by fire."

Colonel Stretton Gets New Post

Commissioner William C. Arnold, southern territorial leader of the Salvation Army, announced yesterday that General George L. Carpenter had appointed Colonel Richard F. Stretton, of 1695 Noble drive, N. E., chief secretary of the organization in the south, as provincial commander of the Salvation Army in the New England states, with headquarters in Boston.

Colonel Stretton, who came to his present appointment from Detroit, Mich., in 1936, will be honored at a farewell meeting at 8 o'clock Sunday, in the Salvation Army auditorium at 54 Ellis street. The colonel became a Salvation Army officer in San Francisco 34 years ago.

APPresident Is Re-elected at N. Y. Meeting

McLean, Philadelphia, Again Heads News Association.

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP)—Robert McLean, president of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, was re-elected president of the Associated Press today and two new vice presidents were named. The board of directors, selecting the new officers of the co-operative news gathering association, elected Houston Hart, president and publisher of The San Angelo (Texas) Standard, first vice president. He succeeds E. Lansing Ray, of The St. Louis (Mo.) Globe-Democrat.

Arthur Hays Sulzberger, president and publisher of The New York Times, was elected second vice president, becoming the first New York city publisher to serve as an officer or director of the Associated Press since the death of Adolph S. Ochs, of The Times, seven years ago. He succeeds Stuart H. Perry, editor and publisher of The Adrian (Mich.) Telegram.

The directors re-elected Kent Cooper, Associated Press general manager, secretary; Lloyd Stratton, assistant general manager, assistant secretary; L. F. Curtis, treasurer, and Alan J. Gould, executive assistant, as assistant treasurer.

The executive committee, re-elected, is composed of the following: E. Lansing Ray; Stuart H. Perry; Paul Bellamy, Cleveland (Ohio) Plain Dealer; Frank B. Noyes, Washington (D. C.) Star; President McLean; Paul Patterson, Baltimore (Md.) Sun, and E. H. Butler, Buffalo (N. Y.) News.

Failing to get the necessary four-fifths of the votes cast, a proposed amendment to the by-laws was defeated which would have permitted members to publish the news report outside their defined hours of publication. The vote was 519 for, 234 against. The proposed amendment also would have given afternoon member newspapers which now have no Sunday membership the opportunity to publish a Sunday edition carrying the Associated Press report.

Senate Group Favors Aid to Auto Dealers

Bill Would Authorize RFC To Buy Cars at 'Fair Price.'

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP) Legislation providing for financial assistance to automobile dealers, whose stocks were frozen by a government rationing order last February 1, was approved today by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

Committee members said the measure was broad enough to cover other types of dealers whose principal business might be affected by future rationing orders.

The bill would authorize the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to purchase automobiles and trucks from dealers on, or after, August 1, 1943, at a "fair retail price." It also would authorize RFC loans to dealers on their stocks at the rate of 1 per cent a month.

The committee action was in some respects contrary to the wishes of Secretary of Commerce Jones, RFC head, who urged that the purchase plan go into effect on February 1, 1944, instead of the earlier date. Before February 1, 1944, he said, the situation would "wash itself out" because a market would be created of persons eligible to purchase cars under the rationing system.

Jones told the committee that the RFC already had offered some financial assistance to dealers. This plan, which he said had been approved by all but two automobile manufacturers, called for the RFC to buy new 1941 and 1942 models at the "cost price" to the dealers, plus 1 per cent a month for the period the cars had been in storage.

Use Advertising To Sell Bonds, ANPA Urges

'Professional' Methods Would Boost Sales, Dear Tells U. S.

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP)—Suggesting that the United States government should use professional methods to increase the sale of war bonds, President Walter M. Dear, of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, recommended today that advertising of bonds be done on the same basis as the government is acquiring other war material.

"Advertising is professional in its skill and execution," he said,

"and the equipment for newspaper advertising represents, in addition, very substantial industrial and business investment, including extensive employment of skilled labor and large consumption of commodity goods."

Speaking in a closed session of several hundred editors and publishers meeting at the first general session of the fifty-sixth annual convention of the ANPA at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, Dear said government advertising should be paid for "on a moral and rational par with that upon which other government services and goods are paid for."

Public Barred In Effort To Check Fires

Fires stringing across Black mountain in that section had not approached the large Bonny Blue mine.

Kircher's executive order, first such drastic action in the southern forest region, affects the Chattahoochee National Forest, Georgia; Cherokee National Forest, Tennessee, and the Pisgah and Nantahala National Forests, North Carolina.

Vogel State Park and Fort Mountain State Park, which lie within the Chattahoochee Forest, also are included. The main highways through the forests—state and federal roads—will be open, however, it was pointed out. Woodsmen and residents in the forests will be required to obtain permits from rangers, and other forms of use and travel in the woods vital to the war effort will be restricted for a 30-day period, the ruling stated.

The largest fire already has burned 1,000 acres in the Pisgah National Forest in North Carolina, Kircher said. Four hundred men are fighting the flames, which were started Sunday.

More than 20 others were reported at Brevard, N. C., where rangers are pressing efforts to apprehend persons responsible for starting the blazes.

Fishing Season. The order came at the height of the mountain trout fishing season, but Kircher pointed out that for the benefit of fishermen that the Pisgah fire already has destroyed "for the next five years fishing in some of the best streams in the land."

He continued: "Fishing, camping and picnicking are secondary to the protection of our forest areas at this time. The majority of the mature timber in these areas is now being cut to fill orders for construction of Army camps, air and Naval bases, as well as defense housing projects. At no time in the history of our country have our forests been subjected to such heavy drain, and every step must be taken to prevent any of our present supply from being destroyed by fire."

Fire Fighters. The Regional Office of Civilian Defense yesterday was urged to be ready with volunteers for fire-fighting duty along the southern front.

Kircher made the request in a letter to Charles Murchison, regional director for OCD.

The scarcity of fire-fighters was attributed to the removal of CCC men to Army and Navy posts. CCC personnel was used extensively in the past few years for dousing the blazes.

Cotton Bagging Needs To Be Met

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP)—The Cotton Textile Institute estimated today the government order to convert an additional 20,000 looms to the manufacture of cotton bagging materials should yield 1,500,000,000 yards annually, an amount sufficient to meet the needs of agriculture as well as special wartime requirements for sandbags and other uses.

Argentine Ship Finishes Trip After Blasts

Abandoned Vessel Proves Able To Complete Journey.

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP)—Argentine seamen brought the damaged 8,000-ton tanker Victoria into port today and their stories left little doubt that the neutral vessel had been attacked by submarines 300 miles east of Cape Hatteras on the afternoon of April 17.

A Navy spokesman in Washington said she had "undoubtedly been torpedoed" after first reports of the damage to the year-old $1,000,000 ship left uncertain whether she was attacked or struck a mine.

Captain Felix G. D. Salomone, skipper of the Victoria, which was making her first northward voyage, said he had just reached the radio room when a crash shook the ship and a great column of water rose at the bow.

Although knocked down, he had the ship alarm sounded and returned to the bridge to order the identification flags broken out. The crew of 39 took to lifeboat stations.

The ship did not settle immediately and officers discussed the possibility of remaining aboard. About an hour later, however, the ship was struck again. The captain said he saw a great column of water and noticed a dull yellow flame on the port side of the hold, aft of midships. He immediately ordered the vessel abandoned.

After drifting two nights and a day, the captain's lifeboat was picked up by a United States warship and a few hours later they were taken back to the Victoria, which was still afloat.

The captain said he learned from Fred Throughton, an American who was installation engineer for the Victoria, that the other lifeboat had been picked up by another American warship shortly after dawn April 19 and returned to the tanker. They started the engines and began emergency repairs.

The ship flew the Argentine flag and had the flag and the letters "Argentina" prominently painted on the sides. The afternoon of the attack skies were clear and sunny, he said.

Balkan Tempest Near Explosion

LONDON, April 22.—(AP)—Only Hitler's threat to level Budapest and Bucharest with bombing planes is keeping Rumania and Hungary from war over the "barbaric province" of Transylvania, a diplomat with long experience in the Balkans who just has come out of Rumania said tonight.

The chief concern of the Germans in Rumania just now is Julius Maniu, the old-time peasant leader who is secure in the position of idol of the Transylvanian peasantry, the diplomat said. Maniu has publicly demanded that Premier Ion Antonescu withdraw the Rumanian troops in Russia south of the Dniester and prepare for war with Hungary to regain that part of Transylvania which has lost to Hungary in the German award of Vienna in 1940.

Nazi Marshal Visits Defense in Holland

LONDON, April 22.—(AP)—Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt, commander of German forces in occupied France, was reported today from Stockholm to have held important military discussions in the Netherlands, presumably mapping defense measures to be taken in case of an Allied invasion of France.

Aneta, Netherlands newsagency, said that during his visit to Holland Von Rundstedt inspected new coastal defenses.

London Correspondent Loses U. S. Credentials

Huge Increase In RAF Raids On Nazis Seen

Immensity of Bombing Offensive Indicated by Tonnage.

LONDON, April 22.—(AP)—RAF fighter bombers made an offensive sweep over Cherbourg peninsula this afternoon and attacked enemy airdromes, the Air Ministry announced tonight.

The RAF's bombing offensive against Germany will be increased in the next few months as United States bombers and new British types join in the attacks, a high-ranking British air source predicted today.

He said the pace of the British campaign already was so intensive that on six nights between March 20 and April 20 the RAF plastered Germany with a higher total of explosives on each night than the Nazis loosed on Britain in the entire month. The Germans dropped barely more than 250 tons of bombs on Britain in 33 nights, while on one night alone RAF raiders dropped more than 1,000 tons, he added.

While he conceded that "you can't conduct an offensive without losses," this source said he felt that in view of the weight of the British attacks their losses were "proportionate to the investment."

While the RAF recently lost 51 planes in four days, he said that as many as 300 had been sent out on bombing missions with the loss of only five.

In comparison, he cited German losses of 140 planes in attacks on Malta alone from March 20 to April 20—a period in which the RAF lost only 112 in all its attacks on Germany.

The source called the U. S. bombers' week-end raid on Tokyo "a very good one" and said there were indications the attack had "shaken the Japanese very much," and might even force the Japanese high command to divert some of its fighter strength to the defense of the home islands.

REDS QUOTE AL SMITH.

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, April 22.—(AP)—Alfred E. Smith has made the front page in Soviet Russia, even if the publication was a German-warped leaflet dropped over Nazi lines. The leaflet quoted the former governor of New York as urging aid for Russia in her struggle.

Russians Rout Finns in Battle Near Ladoga

By EDDY GILMORE.

KUIBYSHEV, U. S. S. R., April 22.—(AP)—The Russian Karelian armies, freshly reinforced by reserves, pushed through two breakthroughs in the Finnish lines to-night in violent fighting, and Red army dispatches said the Finns had suffered grave defeats in an exhausting attempt to stem the Russian advance at any cost.

With the vast German-Russian front a quagmire in many sections, the northern battles, while not on a major scale, appeared to be the hardest and most significant.

(Helsinki dispatches attested to the ferocity of the Russian drive against the Finnish lines, although claiming that the Finns were standing firm. The Finnish dispatches said the Russians had made 150 attacks along the Svir river in two weeks, using six divisions, four brigades, an armored regiment, numerous ski battalions and other combat units, and lost 14,000 killed in terrible charges.

(The main fighting is going on in the Svir river area of Karelia between lakes Ladoga and Onega, and the primary Russian objective is to free the lower sections of the Murmansk railroad to clear the way for movement southward of United States and British supplies now accumulating at Murmansk).

In one sector of a three-day-old breakthrough, the Russians were widening the gap in small but sure advances; in another, where the Finns had fortified a town, a Red army unit found a weak spot at a junction of the Finnish troops, threw reserves into the breach and compelled the Finns to retreat with heavy losses in a night assault on the flank.

One infantry battalion advanced six miles, wading through minefields and destroying many enemy blockhouses.

Finnish counterattacks by forces as large as two regiments, bolstered by tanks, were declared met by a storm of artillery and trench-mortar fire and then turned into retreat by an enveloping movement by Russian infantry.

In the arctic regions to the north (presumably west of Murmansk), four German attacks were declared pinched off by the Russians.

Reviewing naval operations in Norwegian and Barents waters, the Moscow news said the Russian navy had sunk during the winter 85 German ships of a tonnage of 378,400. During the first 10 days of April, seven additional German transports of 48,000 tons were sunk, it was announced.

A dispatch from the north said the German air force had lost 25 per cent of the planes with which it tried to raid the Murmansk supply base recently. In one attack, 27 Nazi planes were shot down.

On the Kalinin front which stretches from Moscow northwest to Lake Ilmen, the Russians reported that among 5,000 enemy troops killed were members of Belgian and Netherlands "volunteer" legions. The capture of a fairly large German stronghold on this front also was announced.

Russians Sink 2 Nazi Vessels in Barents Sea

MOSCOW, April 23 (Thursday).—(AP)—Russian naval units operating in the Barents sea have sunk one 5,000-ton enemy tanker and a 4,000-ton transport, the Soviet bureau of information announced today. In a broadcast communique, the bureau said 32 German planes were destroyed Tuesday against 15 Russian planes lost.

Tampico Removing Germans and Japs

TAMPICO, Mexico, April 22.—(AP)—German and Japanese residents of this strategically important gulf coast zone, center of the Mexican oil industry, were given five days today to move into the interior following the reported discovery that Japanese residents had orders to "act" should their government call upon them to do so.

Defenders of Panay Pushed to Interior By Invading Japs

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP)—Fighting bitterly against overwhelming numbers, American-Filipino troops on the island of Panay were forced to withdraw from their positions at Lambunao in the mountainous interior of the island, the War Department announced today.

At the same time, new attacks were launched by the enemy against defense lines in Antique, the west coast province of Panay, and the spreading tentacles of Japanese conquest pointed to the neighboring island of Negros as a communique reported an enemy air reconnaissance of that island.

The attacks in Antique province were started by enemy columns from San Jose de Buenavista, the southwest coast town at which landings were made two days ago.

The columns were driving against American-Filipino forces making a stand at San Remigio and Valderama, to the north and slightly inland.

At Lambunao the defenders were forced to withdraw after days of pounding by a heavy enemy force driving inland from the southeast coast of Panay. Lambunao lies about 25 miles north of Iloilo, where the enemy made one of the two initial landings on Panay April 16.

The department's report that the Japanese were making an aerial reconnaissance of Negros was taken as an indication that this island would be the next to suffer a full-scale invasion as the enemy strives to extend his control over all of the rich Visayan group of the central Philippines.

U. S. Troops In India, More Are En Route

Generous American Help Pledged by Advisor Louis Johnson.

By PRESTON GROVER.

NEW DELHI, India, April 22.

(AP)—The Japanese are throwing into the battle of Burma all the powerful forces which overran Malaya, British quarters said tonight, but the bitter British-Chinese resistance is spoiling the time-table of conquest and giving the Allies a chance to mass sea and air power for the salvation of India.

Tending strongly to support this view, Louis Johnson, head of the United States advisory mission to India, told a press conference today.

"United States troops already are in India and more will come,"

(The dispatch did not make clear whether he referred only to the American air forces in India under Major General Lewis H. Brereton, which already have pounded hard at such Japanese holds as the Andaman Islands.)

"The cost of all American troops will be borne by my government and besides that we are going to give you a lot under lease-lend," said Johnson. "America is in India's camp."

Window Displays To Boost Bonds

Atlanta merchants Monday will begin a series of window displays urging purchase of war bonds and stamps, setting the pace for other cities throughout the country, R. C. Hawley, director of Atlanta's Victory Display Board, said last night.

At a meeting of display men and merchants, Robert W. Fowler, senior promotion specialist, of Washington, outlined a national goal of a billion dollars per month through the payroll deduction plan.

Balser To Head Progressive Club

Meyer Balser, well-known insurance executive, was elected president of the Jewish Progressive Club last night at the annual meeting, succeeding Herman Gross.

Other officers named were: Dr. Nathan Blass, vice president; Max Mendel, secretary, and Harry Dvoskin, treasurer.

More than 600 members attended the meeting.

Tonight's Opera

Lily Pons, the French coloratura soprano, will make her Atlanta debut in opera tonight, when the Metropolitan Opera Company presents Donizetti's "The Daughter of the Regiment" at the municipal auditorium. Time: 8 o'clock.

The full cast and brief synopsis follows:

"THE DAUGHTER OF THE REGIMENT" (In French.)

Music by Gaetano Donizetti

Libretto by Bayard and St. Georges.

CAST

Marie, "The Daughter of the Regiment" (soprano) Lily Pons

La Marquise, "Ira Petina (contralto) Sulpice Salvatore Baccaloni

Tonio, "The hero, a young peasant, saves Marie's life, and the regiment rejoices, as Marie sings 'All Men Confess It,' the regimental song.

Later, however, Tonio comes back to the camp to tell Marie that he loves her and wants to marry her, but he is arrested as a spy. He declares his love and Marie's, in a duet, "No Longer Can I Doubt It." He clears his status by joining the regiment. But at that moment, the Marchioness arrives, claims Marie as her niece and takes her away. Marie sings her adieu, "Farewell, a Long Farewell," followed by protestations by Sulpice and Tonio.

ACT 2.

Scene: The castle of Berkenfield.

Marie is installed in the grand manner, but complains to Sulpice, who has come to see her, that she is unhappy. Company is coming, and the Marchioness insists that Marie practice a song to sing for them—"The Light of Early Day," but she breaks into the rollicking vulgar, "Ratapan!" and is joined in song by Sulpice to the horror of the Marchioness. Suddenly the drums and trumpets sound the arrival of the Twenty-first Regiment with Tonio, now a colonel, at its head. "We Have Come, Our Child To Free." Tonio sues for her hand, but the Marchioness refuses. Marie and her lover plan to elope, but the Marchioness reveals to her that she is her mother. Marie yields to her pleadings to marry a wealthy suitor of her mother's choice, and renounces Tonio in an agony of sorrow. Her grief, however, arouses her mother's sympathy, and she relents. The comedy ends happily, with the lovers reunited.

ACT 3.

Scene: The Swiss Tyrol. Time: The year 1815, during the occupation by the Twenty-first Regiment of Napoleon's army.

Marie, the heroine and "daughter" of the regiment, tells the story of her life in her opening aria, "The Camp of My Birthplace." She was found as an infant on the battlefield by Sergeant Sulpice. On her person was affixed a letter written by her father to the Marchioness of Berkenfield, which Sulpice has carefully preserved. The regiment adopted the child and she has been reared by her "many fathers." Sulpice, in a duet with Marie, "The Ratapan," further relates her history. Tonio, the hero, a young peasant, saves Marie's life, and the regiment rejoices, as Marie sings "All Men Confess It," the regimental song.

Later, however, Tonio comes back to the camp to tell Marie that he loves her and wants to marry her, but he is arrested as a spy. He declares his love and Marie's, in a duet, "No Longer Can I Doubt It." He clears his status by joining the regiment. But at that moment, the Marchioness arrives, claims Marie as her niece and takes her away. Marie sings her adieu, "Farewell, a Long Farewell," followed by protestations by Sulpice and Tonio.

ACT 2.

Scene: The castle of Berkenfield.

Marie is installed in the grand manner, but complains to Sulpice, who has come to see her, that she is unhappy. Company is coming, and the Marchioness insists that Marie practice a song to sing for them—"The Light of Early Day," but she breaks into the rollicking vulgar, "Ratapan!" and is joined in song by Sulpice to the horror of the Marchioness. Suddenly the drums and trumpets sound the arrival of the Twenty-first Regiment with Tonio, now a colonel, at its head. "We Have Come, Our Child To Free." Tonio sues for her hand, but the Marchioness refuses. Marie and her lover plan to elope, but the Marchioness reveals to her that she is her mother. Marie yields to her pleadings to marry a wealthy suitor of her mother's choice, and renounces Tonio in an agony of sorrow. Her grief, however, arouses her mother's sympathy, and she relents. The comedy ends happily, with the lovers reunited.

ACT 3.

Scene: The Swiss Tyrol. Time: The year 1815, during the occupation by the Twenty-first Regiment of Napoleon's army.

Marie, the heroine and "daughter" of the regiment, tells the story of her life in her opening aria, "The Camp of My Birthplace." She was found as an infant on the battlefield by Sergeant Sulpice. On her person was affixed a letter written by her father to the Marchioness of Berkenfield, which Sulpice has carefully preserved. The regiment adopted the child and she has been reared by her "many fathers." Sulpice, in a duet with Marie, "The Ratapan," further relates her history. Tonio, the hero, a young peasant, saves Marie's life, and the regiment rejoices, as Marie sings "All Men Confess It," the regimental song.

Later, however, Tonio comes back to the camp to tell Marie that he loves her and wants to marry her, but he is arrested as a spy. ## Music Seen As Bulwark For Morale

Sloan Pleased With Opera's Reception in South.

"The art of fine music has its part to play in war," George A. Sloan, president of the Metropolitan Opera Association, said yesterday. "There is no finer bulwark for national morale than fine music and the benefits it brings to national strength of character."

"Grand Opera was born in the south, in so far as America is concerned," added Sloan, who is here for the opera.

He said he was particularly gratified with the fine reception that the company is receiving here.

First Statement.

Sloan's complete statement, his first one for publication, follows:

Reunion in Atlanta; Lily Pons Meets Hubby Kostelanetz

By DUDLEY GLASS.

Lily Pons, the French coloratura soprano, arrived yesterday afternoon from New Orleans to sing the title role in "The Daughter of the Regiment" with the Metropolitan Opera Company tonight. She is stopping at the Georgian Terrace hotel.

She was greeted at the Terminal station by Andre Kostelanetz, noted Russian orchestra conductor, who came to Atlanta to meet her and to confer with officials of the Coca-Cola Company, his sponsor on his radio orchestra broadcasts.

Miss Pons, though weary from her train ride, was smiling and gracious. In her arms was her new dog, Shun-Lo, which means victory in Chinese. He is a Lhasa dog, Miss Pons explained.

Also with her was an Air Corps private, on leave from Moore Field, in Texas. He is a professional magician, whose stage name is Prince Kimmo, though in the service it is plain James Williams. They had scraped up an acquaintance on the train.

"Oh, he does such wonderful tricks," said Miss Pons. "He is simply marvelous."

"That's fine billing," said Prince Kimmo, "but I'm afraid it will be a long time before I can swap this uniform for a stage costume." He hurried back to the train to go on to New York, while the reunited couple took a taxi to the Georgian Terrace hotel.

Lily Pons has never sung in opera in Atlanta, though she did appear in concert at the Auditorium about four years ago. She has been seen here in two movies, "I Dream Too Much," and "That Girl From Paris," the latter made eight years ago. She likes opera and concert, she said, much better than the pictures.

Kostelanetz and she were married in 1938 and live in Norwalk, Conn., when they can get there, which is rarely. They have few chances to meet when both are "on the road."

"Last time was a week ago, in San Francisco," he said. "Next, in New Brunswick, Canada—if plans don't go wrong."

DEMOCRACY IN THE ARTS—When opera lovers gather at a smorgasbord, allied interests—and perhaps a recognition of beauty—wipes away all the barriers. ## Germans Free French Hero, Slay Hostages

General Who Shielded British at Dunkirk Back in France.

By TAYLOR HENRY.

VICHY, France, April 22.—(AP) The Germans freed today the one French hero of the Battle of France, General Rene Jacques Adolphe Prioux, whose sacrificial stand enabled the British to escape at Dunkirk, but at the same time they announced execution of more than 15 hostages in reprisal for the continued assassination of German soldiers.

It was announced officially that 63-year-old General Prioux had been released from captivity and returned to France "for reasons of health." (But it appeared that the Germans and Pierre Laval, new chief of the Vichy government, had decided on this as a bid for popular French support for further "collaboration.")

By contrast, Lieutenant General Ernst Von Schaumburg, German military commander of Paris, disclosed in a grim proclamation dated yesterday, that five hostages "responsible through solidarity" for the killing of a German soldier and bombing of German army offices April 2, had been shot and that the same fate had befallen 10 others for the killing of a member of the German army on the Rue Erlanger in Paris last Monday night.

In a supplemental proclamation dated today he said French civilians since had arrested and handed over the "authors" of the latest attack, and that as a result he was rescinding an order which would have sent 20 more, whom he termed "Communists and Jews," would be deported "to the east to carry out forced labor in camps."

He also permitted immediate reopening of Paris theaters and amusement resorts which had been closed, and moved the curfew back to its normal midnight hour.

He allowed to stand, however, an order for execution of 15 "other Communists" if the pretrators of the April 2 attack were not apprehended by April 26, and said "500 Communists and Jews" would be deported "to the east to carry out forced labor in camps."

French efforts were being made to obtain release of at least some of the 20 hostages held by the Germans since the British commando raid on St. Nazaire last month—notably Jean Blanchard, an important labor leader. Francois Blanco, mayor of St. Nazaire, was released a few days ago.

General Prioux, who is being freed from a German war prisoner camp, has been held since he and his wife were captured on the River Lys May 29, 1940—after an heroic stand of four days, which enabled the British expeditionary force and many French troops to escape the German trap and reach England by sea.

General Prioux had formed a cavalry corps composed of the second and third light mechanized divisions into a hollow square which threw back repeated attacks. Then, three days before his capture, he was given command of the first army, but the situation by then was so hopeless that his first order was to burn the flags to keep them from German hands.

Opera Stars and Fried Chicken Get Together

By EUGENIA BRIDGES HARTY.

The artists of the Metropolitan arrived in Atlanta hungry Tuesday morning because the diner had been taken off. But they made up for it at the smorgasbord given in their honor yesterday at noon.

This gala luncheon under sunny skies, backgrounded with dogwood and azaleas in fullest bloom, has become a yearly custom.

There was massive Salvatore Baccaloni, the justly famous bass-buffo, who sang last night and stars again tonight in "The Daughter of the Regiment." He was putting away a veritable platter of fried chicken. For smorgasbord it may be called, but fried chicken, southern style, remains an integral part of the menu.

Plays the Clown.

He was comfortably complacent, sunning his 300 pounds on the beflowered Biltmore terrace. Lounging back in his deck chair afterward, he produced from his pocket a giant cigarette lighter (the kind one usually finds on a coffee table) and calmly lit an immense cigar. But he had to have his joke.

Mrs. E. Raymond Johnson, the Atlanta Music Club's president, elected, was near by, immaculately groomed. Baccaloni approached her in some confusion. He burst forth in a torrent of his rapid-fire

Italian-English. It seemed Mrs. Johnson's chin had upon it a suspicion of fried chicken, perhaps. But no, Mr. Baccaloni's paw-like forefinger told another story. It was sooty, pitch black soot, at that, after he quickly brushed it across Mrs. Johnson's fair cheek. It was a few minutes before she realized at what everyone was laughing.

Merry Mood.

And everyone was in a merry mood. Though the Met's cast is spared the dyed-in-the-wool practical jokers, such as Mr. Baccaloni, it loves its fun and its food. The tinkling laughter of vivacious, dynamic Lily Djanelli, Tuesday night's "Carmen," carried across the terrace. It set the key and echoed the mood for the feast.

Crowds of operatic bright lights mingled with local citizens in a long line flanking the long, narrow table upon which appetizing delicacies were heaped. They elbowed each other with good humoredly. They ate with gusto.

Norman Cordon and Wilfred Engelman, who sing twice and three times here, respectively, did not hold up on account of their roles last night. They are not of the clique who think one should eat lightly before singing. Charles Kullman, Tuesday night's "Don Jose," was a cheerful sight, going to town on his chicken, in the only proper way to eat fried chicken. Glamorous Bidu Sayao, the little Brazilian prima donna who sang the feminine lead last night, made an exquisite picture in her trim pastel tailoring—and eating as much as anyone. It was a gala occasion. And one that will be remembered not only by the enthusiastic artists of the Met, but by the delighted fans who came to look at and eat with them.

FLEET MOVEMENTS.

LONDON, April 22.—(AP)—Reuters said today the Vichy radio reported from Morocco that a British naval force of two battleships and six destroyers passed Gibraltar and steamed into the Mediterranean early yesterday afternoon.

Terror Sweeps Madagascar; Gestapo Busy

Hundreds of Free French Followers Held on Laval's Orders.

LONDON, April 22.—(INS)—A reign of terror has swept Madagascar, island in the Indian ocean, following orders from Pierre Laval, the London Daily Express reported tonight from Antananarivo, capital of the island.

Hundreds of Free French followers were said to have been arrested since Japanese warships broke into the Indian ocean, while local police were stated to be performing their duties under the close surveillance of Heinrich Himmler's Nazi Gestapo agents.

These agents are now trying to round up all known De Gaulle sympathizers on the strategic island, it was said.

It is known that the Japanese already have formed a strong Fifth Column movement in the area.

The dispatch to the Daily Express, first news from Madagascar in many months, was sneaked off the island by courier to Durban, South Africa, and thence to London by cable.

trary to any real French sentiment to that effect.

Besides Marchal, those whose resignations were disclosed today included Baron James Baeyens, first secretary; Vice Consul Andre Flot, and Charles Benoit of the embassy's code section.

Both Marchal and Baron Baeyens are married, the latter to an American wife—the former, Mary Clark, of San Francisco. Flot and Benoit have lived in the United States for some 20 years.

Whether the procession of resignations among Ambassador Henry-Haye's subordinates foreshadowed a complete rupture of diplomatic relations between the United States and Vichy remained a subject of conjecture tonight. Officially the position was that United States Ambassador William D. Leahy was under orders to return to this country soon, while relations with the Laval government were on a day-to-day basis subject to new decisions which might be taken by the United States in the light of new developments.

In this connection Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles made clear earlier this week that such decisions might not await the actual return of Leahy from Vichy. It was furthermore stressed in authoritative quarters that the United States is ready to act immediately in defense of its interests if the Laval regime undertakes any sudden move in support of Hitler's war plans.

Three New Films Move in and Two Are Held Over

A bedroom comedy, a tender love story, a horror picture and a stage and screen bill combine to make for well-rounded screen offerings for theatergoers this week. The Rialto holds "The Invaders" for another week and "The Courtship of Andy Hardy" moves to the promises many laughs at Loew's Grand. "Ghost of Frankenstein" is the new offering at the Roxy. Loew's Grand

Following on the heels of one of the most hilarious Andy Hardy comedies to date, Edward Small's "Twin Beds," a story of the problems of a loving husband who doesn't like twin beds, but whose wife just adores them, and a husband who doesn't like for a romantic prowler to cast glances at his wife much less find the same prowler under his own bed opens at Loew's Grand theater today. George Brent is the husband, who, after his marriage to Joan Bennett, finds out she is connected with the USO and can't leave town for a honeymoon. He further

Fox

Henry Bellmann's novel, "Kings Row," the tender story of the loves and hates of the young people and the old people who find life in a typical small community in America, starring Ann Sheridan, Ronald Reagan, Betty Field and Robert Cummings, opens on the screen of the Fox theater tomorrow. Miss Sheridan in her first real dramatic role, plays the part of a young girl from the other side of the tracks. She falls in love with a son of a well-to-do family, Ronald Reagan, and meets the inevitable obstacles which small town society usually presents. The boy, after being stripped of his wealth, is crippled in a train crash. But tears are mingled with laughter and the picture proceeds to a happier climax.

Capitol

Comedy will be the theme of the new stage show opening at the Capitol theater tomorrow. "Keep 'Em Laughing" is the title. A cast of 35 performers, which includes the Eight Dancing Venus Girls, will present such vaudeville acts as Buddy Lake and Henry Chie, in comedy as you like it; the Golden Pair, in unique surprises; the Two Jacks, in a novelty peric act; Johnny Wages, the one-man band, and a host of others. On the screen, the Capitol will feature "Frisco Lil," an action film, starring Kent Taylor and Irene Hervey. It's an underworld story about crooked politicians.

Rhodes

"The Courtship of Andy Hardy," the latest of the Hardy series which shows Andy, Mickey Rooney, in the role of a young upstart who branches out and finds himself another girl friend to woo, moves to the Rhodes theater for a hold-over run today. Pretty Donna Reed plays the role of the new girl friend who is fashioned into a sophisticated beauty by Andy. Ann Rutherford, his old girl friend, gets back in town in time to have a date or two with him before the picture closes. Lewis Stone and all the other regulars in the Hardy cast play their same roles.

age run of Nazi pictures. In this instance, the men on our side have the upper hand and the way they dispose of the Nazis is very entertaining.

Bela Lugosi, a spooky character in his own right, heads the supporting cast, which includes Ralph Bellamy, Lionel Atwill and Evelyn Akers. Sir Cedric Hardwicke is effectively cast as the new Dr. Frankenstein, who tries to place a normal brain into the monster, but instead of making the monster more docile, it makes him more furious. Bellamy plays the role of a cop, and Atwill is Frankenstein's assistant.

2531 Men Wrote to Thomas— My scalp feels fine

DURING one* month, 2531 Thomas clients attested in writing to the fact that they were pleased with Thomas treatment. Although each person expressed his thoughts in his own way, each in substance said, "Thanks to Thomas, my scalp now feels fine."

Such warm words of praise have caused the Thomas organization to expand into 45 offices during the past 20 years. More than a quarter-million persons have expressed their confidence in Thomas technique by turning their scalp problems over to Thomas experts.

Why don't you, too, turn your hair worries over to a Thomas expert? He'll show you exactly how Thomas treatment removes dandruff scales and how it soothes itch caused by local recreation. He'll advise you—in private, without charge or obligation, and will show you pictures and letters from Thomas clients. Come in today!

Japs and Chinese In Hand-to-Hand Clashes in Burma

CHUNGKING, China, April 22.—(AP)—The loss of the town of Pinyinana, on the Sittang front in Burma 150 miles south of Mandalay, and hand-to-hand fighting at Loikawa, on the Salween front above the Thailand border, were reported tonight by the Chinese.

Bell Project Area Is To Get 300 Residences

Marietta Mayor Says FHA Has Authorized Units.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MARIETTA, Ga., April 22.—Mayor L. M. Blair stated today that the Federal Housing Administration had authorized the construction of 300 new homes under war priorities in the Marietta area. These new homes must be located within two miles of the Bell Aircraft bomber plant.

It is understood that one Atlanta firm has under consideration a tract of land on Roswell street where it plans to build 200 homes as soon as final details of purchase and FHA approval can be concluded. Another firm is planning immediate erection of 50 new homes.

Mayor Blair intimated that authorization for additional homes above the 300 first allotment would shortly follow.

REMEMBER THE BOYS AT SEA IN GASOLINE TANKER SHIPS

Think of finding yourself in a sea of flaming gasoline, while an Axis crew laughs from the gun-deck of a sneaking submarine.

Keep that in mind when you think you must have a Taxicab "right this minute."

For Taxicabs "right this minute" use up extra gasoline and extra rubber.

There are mighty few Taxi trips that cannot be planned a few minutes earlier. And those few minutes will let the Dispatching Switchboard direct a nearby cab to pick you up, instead of "Dead-heading" all the way out from town.

Every time a Taxicab can make one trip serve two sets of passengers, we are helping save merchant mariners from a flaming death at sea.

Remember that. Your Taxi driver remembers it. Your Dispatching Switchboard remembers it. Help them fight to keep down the consumption of tires and gasoline. Help them keep their cabs in service—your service.

Relief Agencies Are Invited To Submit Quotas

Budgets May Be Included in Early Combined Appeal.

War and foreign relief agencies planning financial appeals in Atlanta in 1942 yesterday were invited to submit their quotas and operating budgets to the War Relief Appeal Council of Metropolitan Atlanta for consideration as part of a combined solicitation to take place within the next few weeks.

L. L. Gellerstedt, chairman of the council, said an early response would be necessary for inclusion in the combined appeal. The council is composed of almost 100 Atlanta leaders, representing all phases of civic and business interests. It was organized to give support to worthy wartime appeals and protect Atlanta against unwarranted solicitations. Boyce M. Edens, director-secretary of the Community Fund, is secretary.

"After careful study of the situation we have recommended a combination of approved war and foreign relief appeals in one solicitation this spring, and a combination of our own local agencies, in the Community Fund, in one fall solicitation," Gellerstedt said.

"The spring appeal must be concluded before the end of June, so immediate action is necessary by agencies wishing to take part."

Once the combined appeal is organized, the participating agencies approved, and a combined goal set, no further war campaigns will be approved in 1942, unless an emergency of utmost gravity arises, Gellerstedt said. Should this happen, the council may approve fund solicitation on an emergency basis and the public will be notified of the emergency.

NYA Program Broadcast, But My, the Worries!

Griffin Announcer Forced To Fill in When Cast Is Lacking.

Officials of the National Youth Administration down in Griffin were in a swivet yesterday.

They were due on the air in two minutes. Their script called for a youth presently or formerly employed on an NYA project. Most of the formerly employed young people are in war industries. Most of those now at work are preparing for war industries. None could be spared for the radio.

By the time they explained their dilemma to the announcer, it was time to go on the air. Still no youth. The announcer calmly started the introduction to the program. "Participants this afternoon include... and your announcer, Andy Todd, a former youth worker at the NYA center at College Park."

It was no joke. That was where Andy had received his working knowledge of radio construction and operation. He took two parts. The show went on.

William H. Power Dies at Marietta

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MARIETTA, Ga., April 22.—Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the chapel of Mayes Ward & Company for William Hill Power, 79, who died Wednesday at his residence on Wayland street. The Rev. B. A. Phillips and the Rev. George Brown will officiate. Interment will be in the Power cemetery at Dunwoody.

Mr. Power was a farmer. He came to Cobb county from Fulton county 34 years ago, making his residence in the Sandy Plains community. He had lived in Marietta for the past year.

Survivors are his wife, the former Miss Edna Prater; three daughters, Sarah Power, of Marietta; Mrs. W. D. Hagood, of Smyrna; Mrs. R. A. Chandler, of St. Joe, Fla., and one daughter-in-law, Mrs. Gus Power, of Marietta.

Marr To Address New Scout Troop

Weaver Marr, chief executive of Boy Scouts of the southeastern district, will speak at a special investiture service of the newly organized Jewish Boy Scout troop No. 53, at 8 o'clock tonight at the A. A. Educational Center.

Marietta To Get Training School

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MARIETTA, Ga., April 22.—Order for necessary machinery for the aircraft worker training school in the Cobb county fair grounds building has gone through, and establishment of this school will get under way as soon as the machinery comes.

Applications for enrollment in the school, either as teachers or as workers, must be made through the Marietta or the Atlanta United States Employment Office, but the training school itself will be conducted by the Cobb County Board of Education, vocational training department. Clyde Maxwell, local NYA superintendent, Banks DuPre, and several other local men recently returned from Buffalo where they took an intensive training course to qualify them as teachers.

These men will train other teachers for the Cobb county school and in a short period after arrival of machinery it is expected that the school will be working on a 24-hour, 7-day a week basis.

Cleve Mincey Named Head of Funeral Group

Arnall Hits 'Armchair Generals' at Convention of State Body.

Cleve Mincey, of Waycross, yesterday was elected president of the Georgia Funeral Directors' Association at its convention held at the Billmore hotel.

T. A. McCord, of Fort Valley, and Cecil Poe, of Fairburn, were elected first and second vice presidents, respectively. E. L. Almons Jr., of Monroe, was named secretary and treasurer.

Attorney General Arnall, principal speaker at the convention, lashed out at the "armchair generals" who say all and do nothing to back the President in this country's war effort.

The attorney general, who is currently a candidate for the Governor's post, said that "our desires are secondary to our nation's interest and welfare. The complainants, the discontents and those who are unwilling to suffer any inconvenience should be muzzled."

Among others who spoke before the group were John G. Reeves, chairman of the War Priority Board for the southeast, and D. M. Strickland, of the Casket Manufacturers' Association of America. Reeves spoke on "Priorities in the Funeral Service Industry," and Strickland spoke on the effects of priorities on the manufacture of caskets.

More than 325 funeral directors attended the convention which closed last night with a dinner.

2d-Night Audience Turns To Color, Despite War Gloom

... AN ENTHUSIASTIC second-night audience, in a gay and receptive mood, acclaimed with thunderous applause the local debut of Basso Salvatore Bacaloni, the Metropolitan's great singing-comedian, in last evening's performance of Rossini's delightful comedy, "The Barber of Seville." Madame Bidu Sayao, the strikingly beautiful Brazilian soprano, "brought down the house," for, although it was her operatic debut here, she is an Atlanta favorite, having scored triumphs in local concerts. The initial appearance of Bruno Landi, the lyric tenor, also won instant favor. The evening brought to a brilliant climax the season's concert series sponsored by the Atlanta Music Club, although the operatic curtain will not ring down until this evening with the presentation of "The Daughter of the Regiment."

Last evening's performance was one of those never-to-be-forgotten occasions when the moods of stars and audience merged as one. The colorful opera was complemented by the rainbow effect of the glamorous gowns and the beauty of the feminine spectators. Just as many handsome jewels flashed and as many floral bouquets nodded from gleaming shoulders as on the opening night. The presence of prominent visitors in the glittering horseshoe of boxes and in the arena—as always—further added lustre to the brilliant occasion.

Those important visitors, the George Sloans, of Greenwich, Conn., were in the box with their hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Cason Callaway, of Blue Springs. Mrs. Sloan, a lovely blonde who wears her hair in the new halo effect, and Mrs. Callaway, a striking brunette, are a perfect foil for each other. Mrs. Sloan's décolleté gown of black net featured a bouffant skirt and sequin embroidery at the shoulders. Mrs. Callaway wore a filmy gown of ivory-tinted Chantilly lace.

Three of Atlanta's hand-somest matrons, Mrs. Robert Venable Roper, Mrs. Andrew Calhoun and Mrs. Frank Adair, greeted friends from Mrs. Roper's box. Mrs. Roper's stunning gown was of pale green crepe, shot with silver threads, and pinned upon her ermine wrap was a cluster of purple orchids. Mrs. Calhoun was beautifully attired in white lace posed over white tulle, with orchids adorning her left shoulder. Pale gray was Mrs. Adair's choice of color for the smart gown which she wore with a cluster of camellias.

Mrs. Thornton in Blue. Albert Thornton accompanied Mrs. Thornton, who was lovely in ice-blue satin trimmed in mink. They occupied a box with Mrs. Davis Webster, handsome in black and white tulle, and Mrs. Green D. Warren, who chose a becoming aquamarine dinner gown with a burgundy girdle embroidered in gold. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Price and Mr. and Mrs. Hedley Wilcox were in a box together. Mrs. Price chose a red and white jersey, and Mrs. Wilcox was gowned in royal blue jersey.

Mrs. Horace Paul was glimpsed in a box wearing black chiffon and tulle. With her were Mrs. Rosalind Luncford in rose lace, and the latter's daughter, Rosalind, who was gowned in yellow net. Mr. Paul completed the foursome. Judge and Mrs. Virlyn Moore entertained their young daughter, Sally Pat, and Sally Prescott in their box. Moore was gowned in Dresden lane and Sally Pat wore aquamarine net. Sally Prescott wore peach-colored satin.

A trio of attractive matrons in a box were Mesdames Herbert Z. Hopkins, Clarence Laws and Herbert Alden. The former was gowned in a flesh moire tulle; the latter was in pastel blue chiffon, and Mrs. Laws wore crepe printed in floral design.

Mrs. Arthur Merrill, in printed crepe, was accompanied by Dr. Merrill, and her mother, Mrs. W. G. Harrison, of Birmingham, who wore black lace. Completing the party were Mr. and Mrs. Harlee Branch Jr., the latter wearing a black skirt and a white net and sequin jacket.

Petite and brunet Mrs. John Candler was gowned in yellow chiffon. With her and Mr. Candler were their mother, Mrs. George C. Brandon, who wore black chiffon, and their daughter, Nancy, in pink net.

Two attractive mothers and their daughters were Mrs. T. C. Davison and her daughter, Betty, and Mrs. Marion C. Pruitt and her daughter, Emily. Mrs. Davison was gowned in blue chiffon and her daughter in yellow net. Mrs. Pruitt chose

Film Committee To Meet Today

The Atlanta Better Films Committee will meet today at the Ansley hotel at 12:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson will speak on "Subversive Activities" and "Women Talking Too Much." Dr. Calvin B. Stewart will be presented by Mrs. Carlyle Fraser in a talk on the "Cancer" campaign. An interesting visitor will be Mrs. Kendall J. Fielder, of Hawaii.

Mrs. Richardson's class of instruction will meet at 11 o'clock as will the executive board. Mrs. O. D. Bartlett, president, will preside and hear the report of the nominating committee, after which election of officers for the ensuing year will occur.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. R. C. Mott, CA. 1494 or Mrs. J. H. Grobli, VE. 2040.

beige lace, and her daughter wore white tulle. Mrs. Ledlie Conger was gowned in cream-colored lace. In her box were Mrs. George Jewett, who wore flowered satin; Mrs. L. L. Ferry, who was gowned in rose satin; Mrs. N. D. Eubank, who chose white crepe trimmed in sequins, and Eleanor Stafford, who was gowned in blue tulle and tulle.

Virginia Visitor. Mrs. Winship Nunnally was handsomely gowned in gray lace embroidered in iridescent, and a platinum fox cape. She and Mr. Nunnally had as their guests Professor and Mrs. Julio Galban, of University, Va., the latter attractively gowned in a red jersey bodice and a white lace skirt, worn with an ermine jacket.

In a box were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Yopp, the latter in blue lace trimmed in rhinestones; Mr. and Mrs. Walter McElreath, the latter wearing black lace and tulle; Roger Martin, and Mrs. Martin, who was gowned in beige lace.

Jessie Allen entered her box wearing aquamarine crepe combined with lace. With her were Mrs. Ella P. Leonard in black chiffon and lace; Mrs. Charles Edens in white chiffon; Jean Cannon in sea-foam mousseline de soie; Maribel Richardson in white crepe, and Myrtle Rushin in blue tulle and sequins.

Forming a box party were Mrs. S. M. Hastings, gowned in blue lace; Mrs. James A. Smith, who wore Dubonnet lace; Mrs. W. C. Hughes, in black tulle, and her daughter, Mary Louise, who wore black tulle; Mrs. Susie Reese Kennedy, in white mousseline de soie, and her daughter, Betty, wearing blue tulle.

Trio of Sisters. Mrs. Joseph B. Jacobs was chatting between acts with her sisters, Mrs. Ike Epstein, of Charlotte, and Mrs. Joseph Rady, of Nashville. She wore emerald crepe, accented with gold, and Mrs. Epstein wore black Chantilly lace and net. Mrs. Rady's gown was fashioned of aquamarine crepe; Mrs. A. J. Weinberg was glimpsed in a graceful black jersey model appliqued in a gold leaf design. Filmy black net worn with amethyst clips styled the gown worn by Mrs. Weinberg's sister, Mrs. David Silverman, of Kingstree, S. C. Petite and brunet Harriet Weinberg chose chattruise crepe beaded in bronze.

Emily Claire and Elizabeth Millican were co-hostesses in the box of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Millican. The former wore blue net and the latter was in aqua net. Their guests were Lucy Starr, who wore pink tulle, and Julia Leonard, who was gowned in white net trimmed in red.

Among others glimpsed in the boxes were Mrs. Ezekiel S. Candler, who was gowned in white crepe beaded in gold; Mrs. Julian Harris, wearing black crepe; Mrs. H. A. Tripp, in white studded in gold beads; Lilly Allen, wearing black lace; Mrs. Paul McGovern, in a flowered skirt with a red bodice, and her daughter, Joanne, in a pale pink lace; Mrs. Mills B. Lane Jr., in a red flowered crepe; Mrs. Douglas McRae, wearing Scotch plaid tulle; Mrs. Frank Ferst, in blue crepe with satin trimmings; and Marjorie Lewis, of New York, wearing white chiffon with a green bodice.

The gay and tuneful "Daughter of the Regiment" will be presented by members of the Metropolitan Opera Company this evening at the city auditorium as the final performance of the brilliant 1942 season. As at the two previous performances, prominent Atlantans and their visitors will occupy the horseshoe of boxes.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel MacDougald and Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Smythe will be together.

Mrs. Roby Robinson, Mrs. Fred L. Minnich and Mrs. Abner W. Calhoun Jr. will be guests of their mother, Mrs. Andrew Calhoun. Mr. and Mrs. Winship Nunnally will have as their guests Mrs. Julio Galban, of University, Va., and Mrs. Harrison Jones.

In a box will be Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Ferst, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ferst, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ferst.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bellman, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Boland, Dr. and Mrs. F. Kells Boland Jr., Miss Marjorie Lewis, of New York, and Wellborn Cody will be together.

Misses Dorothy and Frances Grove, Miss May Haverly and Mrs. John C. Rogers will be guests in Dr. and Mrs. Lon Grove's box. Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Clement Evans will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Granger Hansell.

In a party will be Mrs. Thomas Brumby, Mrs. Richard Brumby, Mrs. Charles C. McGehee, Mrs. Charles C. McGehee Jr. and the latter's children, Charles and Mary McGehee.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Conklin will have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. John K. Ottley Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills B. Lane will have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Malon Courts and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Adamson.

With Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hastings will be the daughter, Miss Mary Louise Hastings, and Miss Margaret Graham.

How To Choose Your Food With an Eye To Losing A Pound Each Thursday

By Ida Jean Kain.

How would you like to lose a pound every Thursday? You can—and you don't have to go calorie cuckoo or vitamin mad. All you do is take the three foods you are prone to overeat, and put them on a budget. The three foods are liable to be bread, butter and dessert. That isn't to say bread is fattening. It isn't. It's just the slices that are extra calories that make your diet too high in starch. One one-half inch slice of bread—whole wheat, white or enriched—is just 75 calories. You can have four such slices a day on a low calorie diet and still be a pound lighter next Thursday. Butter is pure fat, but you can have butter, too. One pat of butter, one-half inch thick, counts 100 calories. Measured by the tablespoon the count is the same. So slice it half as thick and take only one-fourth pat with each meal and all you get is a neat 50 calories. Since soft butter spreads farther, slice it and take it out of the refrigerator before meals.

You can have your bread whenever you like it, for breakfast, lunch or dinner. You might like two slices for breakfast and another couple for a sandwich at noon, and none for dinner. Then you can have your regular dinner—a generous serving of lean meat (always trim off the fat part of the meat and keep your portion lean), a potato, a green vegetable, another vegetable, relishes, salad and a fruit. But don't have anything for dessert except fresh fruit. Enjoy your dinner, but don't sit at the table afterwards and tempt yourself to eat more. Get up and walk resolutely to another room. If you smoke, have a cigarette. Some folks say there's nothing like it to put a period to a low calorie dinner.

This is such a simple plan that you can hardly believe you will lose a pound a week on it. But figures prove you can. If you count desserts at 350 calories, bread at the usual 75 calories per slice, and butter at the average of 100 calories per pat, and then leave out of your menu one dessert, two slices of bread, and half the butter, you escape 650 calories a day. Multiply that by seven and you get a minus 4,550 calories for the week, or slightly more than it takes to lose a pound. There are 4,320 extra calories in a pound of fat. But the principle works just as well in reverse. That many calories less than you need will let you subtract a pound of fat. Give the plan a try for a couple of weeks, without cheating. Don't weigh until next Thursday. You'll lose by then.

MY DAY: Awards For Two Leading Southerners

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY, Tuesday.—I returned this morning from Nashville, Tenn., after waiting quite a time in the middle of the night for a delayed plane. This is the first trip I have taken where we have been made to draw our window curtains at each stop. Most of the time it seemed hardly worth while to open them in between, so the plane was like a darkened room.

One of the things I always enjoy most about flying is the feeling of being in the sky able to look at the clouds. But this enjoyment is evidently out for the duration of the war. Instead, we are just a group of people isolated in a machine which is flying through space. So far as we are concerned, we know nothing of the outer world or our direction. It is rather uncomfortable, perhaps too much like what is happening to most of us in the world today.

Last night I presented the Thomas Jefferson award at the Southern Conference on Human Welfare to two outstanding southerners. Dr. Frank Porter Graham received it, with a citation which noted his great service to education in the south and the country as a whole through his service on the War Labor Board. Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune received it because she fights constantly for freedom and has done such a great service in the educational field for her own people.

Paul Robeson's concert last night was a thrilling experience. He and the Fiske Choir sang "I Am An American," by Earl Robinson. It always stirs me as a ballad, but last night there was something peculiarly significant about it. It was very beautifully done.

I was particularly impressed by Mr. Andrew Jackson Higgins Sr., of New Orleans, La., and his statement that, as a southern industrialist, he was going to tap the great unused reservoir of Negro labor in the south. They will receive training, be employed on an equal basis with equal wages and will constitute 40 per cent of his new employees.

Wife's First Duty Is to Her Husband

Dear Dixie:

I am married to a boy whom I really love with all my heart. I have been married since my seventeenth birthday and am now 20. My baby is one year old. My husband and I have never kept house and for a while we boarded with my parents. I have tried to get him to get us a home to ourselves but he will not. He is 25 years old and I should think by this time he would really want to settle down and have a home of his own if he ever expects to.

My parents will not let him stay in their home because he is so high-tempered. The baby and I stay with them and he boards with some friends. He comes to see us when he wants to and that is not often. I try to make him happy and be a good wife to him, but he just still likes to run around. Do you really think he cares for me? Should I just forget him and tell him to stay away? I stay worried to death most of the time.

UNHAPPY WIFE.

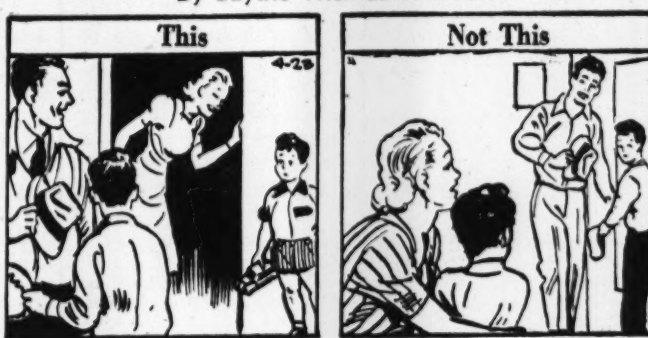

In a way I think your parents are to blame for a great part of your worry, by deliberately keeping you and your husband apart. By refusing to allow him to live at their home they are breaking up your home life and your marriage. Of course there are two sides to the question and your husband may have been so ill-tempered that they could not stand him, just as you say. As long as you stay with your people, the less chance you will have of having a home of your own.

Would it be possible to go live with your husband where he is boarding? Why not see if that could be arranged? Perhaps he cannot afford a better place and the two of you could live together in the boarding house. I really think, that regardless of how indifferent your husband has treated you, that your staying at your parents' home and letting him live some other place has a great deal to do with the present situation. Your place is with him and you should go to him. You married him and you should go with him wherever he goes. Tell him that you cannot stay with your parents any longer and that he will have to provide a place for you and the baby. Whether he wants to settle down or not, the support of you and the baby is something which he must do, and even though he may continue to run around, I think he would like a home.

Golden Lyres and Harps Play Part in Decorations at Club

In compliment to the musical artists who were guests of honor the Piedmont Driving Club was adorned in a motif of golden lyres and harps for the brilliant supper-dance which followed the opera performance of "The Barber of Seville," last evening. One of the most colorful parties of the year, the affair assembled several hundred guests, including a group of prominent visitors who added lustre to the gay opera season.

The club ballroom was never more beautiful than with its stately Grecian columns sheathed in silver and adorned with gold lyres centering sprays of dogwood. The mantel at the far end of the room was overhung with a mammoth gold harp flanked on either side by twinkling lyres.

Guests were enthralled by the impromptu selections sung by the stars of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who acquiesced graciously and often to the demands for more.

The stars, along with officials of the Metropolitan Opera Company, officers of the Atlanta Music Club, past presidents and board members of the Driving Club, were seated at a V shaped table beauteously with epergnes of pastel flowers, with gold candelabra holding white tapers arranged to simulate lyres.

Past presidents of the Driving Club seated at the artists' table were Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Owens, Dr. and Mrs. Floyd W. McRae, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dargan and Mr. and Mrs. De Sales Harrison. Officers and directors of the club attending were Albert Thornton, president, and Mrs. Thornton; Martin E. Kilpatrick, vice president, and Mrs. Kilpatrick; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. ## Prominent Eastern Visitors Honored at Social Affairs

A group of prominent eastern visitors adding charm and interest to the social program attendant upon opera includes Mr. and Mrs. George Sloan, of Greenwich, Conn., who are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cason Callaway, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Butler and Miss Kate Butler, of Buffalo, N. Y., who are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Robinson in Druid Hills.

Their arrival on Tuesday set in motion a series of brilliant parties planned in their honor. At the cocktail hour yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. Butler were fêted by Mr. and Mrs. Jackson P. Dick at their Habersham way residence. Mrs. Henry M. Atkinson assisted her son and daughter in entertaining the guests, who included a limited number of the honor guests' friends.

A cloth of imported lace covered the dining room table, which was centered with a handsome silver urn filled with lilacs, Lady Banksia roses and crabapple blossoms. Adorning either end of the table was a silver tea service. Lilacs, crabapple blossoms, tulips, valley lilies and Lady Banksia roses were arranged throughout the reception rooms.

Earlier in the day Mr. and Mrs. Robinson entertained at a buffet luncheon at their home in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Butler, Miss Butler and Mr. and Mrs. Sloan.

Graceful arrangements of calla lilies, Easter lilies, pink snapdragons and roses filled the marbled interior of the handsome home. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Sloan and Mr. and Mrs. Callaway and Miss Butler received the guests in the artistically decorated drawing room. A number of socially prominent Atlantans and visitors assembled for the affair, which was an important event of the opera season.

The officers are: President, Miss Betty Brown; vice president, Miss Mary Ann Braungart; secretary, Miss Betty Greve; treasurer, Miss Mathilde Turner.

Miss Gilliland Weds Mr. Sims.

Miss Sarah Eleanor Gilliland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Gilliland, became the bride of Clarence Paul Sims, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sims, on Wednesday at the First Baptist church in College Park. The pastor, Dr. James L. Baggett, officiated, and a musical program was presented by Frank Williamson, organist, and Mrs. Fred Brown, soloist.

The rostrum was banked with palms, fern, baskets of calla lilies and candelabra. Ushers were John Gilliland, brother of the bride; Clyde Freeman, R. G. Moseley and J. B. Turner. Miss Martha Baggett was the maid of honor and was gowning in an afternoon model of sky blue worn with navy accessories. Her off-the-face hat was trimmed with a navy veil and she carried a Colonial bouquet of gladioli, blue delphinium and roses. The matron of honor was Mrs. James Roberts and she wore a similar model and her flowers were the same.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, John R. Gilliland, and they entered together. The groom had as his best man his brother, W. C. Sims. The bride was beautifully gowning in a two-piece tailored suit of tiger-eye gold trimmed in a snow tipped fox collar. Her hat was chocolate brown worn with a chain length veil. Her accessories were chocolate brown. Her only ornament was a cameo belonging to her mother, and she carried a prayer book topped with orchids and swainsons.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents with the members of the two families and the wedding party present. The table in the dining room was covered with a lace cloth and was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, flanked on either side by burning tapers. Pink and white snapdragons were used as the decorations throughout the home.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. G. D. Campbell, and Misses Elizabeth Watkins, Catherine and Evelyn Nolan. The bride and groom left for a wedding trip to an unannounced destination and upon their return will reside at 881 King's Court, N. E. The bride traveled in her wedding costume. Mrs. Gilliland, mother of the bride, wore a navy blue sheer with navy accessories and her flowers were Talisman roses. Mrs. Sims, mother of the groom, was gowning in navy blue with navy accessories, and her flowers were Talisman roses.

For Mrs. Johnson. Mrs. Gus Franklin Johnson, the former Miss Rosalind Llorens, was entertained recently at a miscellaneous shower by Mrs. J. W. Dearing and Mrs. H. J. Lamb given at the home of Mr. Johnson's mother, Mrs. Ola Hopper, on Gladstone road. The color scheme was reflected in pink and white decorations.

The Atlanta chapter of Junior Hadassah holds the annual donor banquet on April 29, at 7 o'clock at the Progressive Club. Mrs. Robert M. Travis, president of the southeastern region of Senior Hadassah, will speak.

Miss Lucille Shoenberg and Miss Goldie Goncher, co-chairman, have devised a plan whereby any eligible girls who are not yet Hadassah members may attend the banquet by paying her 1942-43 dues. Interested persons are requested to call Miss Shoenberg or Miss Goncher.

Miss Molly Airov, subscription chairman, states that reservations must be turned in no later than April 28. Members of the general banquet committee are Misses Molly Airov, Gloria Axelrod, Pearl Feldman, Melba Russ, Mrs. Hyman Furman. An important meeting of Junior Hadassah takes place on April 28 at the Winecoff hotel at 3 o'clock. The nominating committee will present the slate of officers for 1942-43. Miss Airov will be at the hotel at 2:30 o'clock in order to accept last-minute reservations. Miss Sarah Rice, president of the chapter, states that service-men are welcome at Hadassah meetings.

Damn the Technicalities

An American admiral once coined a phrase that has become a classic in the national traditions. "Damn the torpedoes! Go ahead!" said Farragut at the battle of Mobile.

Yesterday, at his press conference in the White House, President Roosevelt announced he has ordered the seizure of all enemy-held patent rights that may be useful to the prosecution of the war. Asked by reporters if there might not be legal obstacles in the way of such seizure, the President replied that it is "not a matter of legal technicalities, but of what America might need to win the war." In other words, "Damn the technicalities! Go ahead!"

Which is exactly the attitude this country must take toward all problems concerned with the prosecution of the war. It is the only way to assure victory, it is the American way.

Why should we hesitate to make use of a patent covering some vital material, product or process useful to our prosecution of the war, just because some enemy power claims exclusive right to the use of that patent? We can take that patent, we need it. All right, take it then.

The President also made plain there would be no return of these seized patent rights after the war is over. After the last war we did return such seized rights and, today, we are learning how, in case after case, we are handicapped because we did not have those patents to use during recent years.

Many vital articles are covered by the patents to be seized. The action will mean great acceleration of our war program and a quicker bringing of victory.

The same spirit of "Damn the technicalities," might well be applied to other features of the war program.

What if factory management does interfere with output of war goods? Go ahead! Seize the factories if need be and see they operate at 100 per cent speed and efficiency.

What if restrictive labor laws slow our war progress? Go ahead! Ignore the laws and let the workers—who are overwhelmingly anxious and patriotic—work.

What if states have set up legal barriers to free flow of goods from one to the other? Go ahead! Smash the barriers. These are war goods we are moving.

What if Washington red tape does impede our national fighting spirit? Go ahead! Cut the red tape. Get the job done, now, regardless. "Damn the technicalities! Go ahead!"

—THERE'S MORE COMING, TOKYO!—

Though back in the news, there have been no late photos of Harry Hopkins wearing the old hat—the one with holes in it from thinking things through.

—THERE'S MORE COMING, TOKYO!—

Plows by Night

Reports come from south Georgia of farmers running their plows 24 hours a day, or at least far into the night. With two or more shifts of workers.

Stories of great tractor-drawn, multiple plows, working under floodlights, and stories of mule-drawn plows with lights of sufficient power to keep the furrows straight.

The reason is, partly, because of weather-caused delay in the start of the plowing season. It is, however, also due to the program of extended production which the farmers of the nation have undertaken as their part in the war effort.

The 40-hour work week law does not apply to the farm. A man there may work as long as he is able, as long as he is willing. And the informed, intelligent farmer of today, realizing the need of his nation and of the world for the products of his fields, lets no arbitrary limit call halt to his work.

Once again, as in days of history, the farmers of the nation set example to all workers. No effort is too great for any man, only provided that in making that effort he is aiding his country in the march to victory.

The plows of Georgia work both day and night.

—THERE'S MORE COMING, TOKYO!—

It is complained that this congress seems content to remain six months behind the people. What's become of an older political type who raced across lots to get in front of some followers?

—THERE'S MORE COMING, TOKYO!—

New York Sets Example

The city of New York has pruned its budget for the coming year. The big city will spend, under this war-time budget, $11,000,000 less than last year. This is net saving, despite the mandatory budget increases of more than $20,000,000. Thus the total slash amounts to more than $31,000,000.

To effect this saving to meet the exigencies of war time, 5,600 city jobs were discontinued. Of these, 3,500 are already vacant, leaving 2,100 persons to actually lose jobs. Of these, 399 are school teachers. All employees thus severed from the payroll will be placed on a preferred list for re-employment as other jobs become vacant.

The city of New York has thus set an example to local governments which might well be followed all over the nation.

The nation is at war and individuals and businesses are, without exception, accepting the fact that ordinary expenditures must be drastically curtailed. Federal taxes to meet the cost of the war have multiplied and the end is nowhere in sight. Unless local government can so economize that taxes collected by local units may be reduced, there can be no relief for the already hard-pressed taxpayer.

Of course it goes without saying that essential services of government must be maintained. The safety, health and fundamental well-being of the people must be protected and conserved. There are, however, many places in which state, county, district and municipal governments can so trim their financial sails as to effect genuine and worth-while savings.

The persons who know best where these savings may be effected are the governors, departmental heads, county commissioners, mayors and city councilmen. It is up to them to practice such rigid economy that every penny of non-essential expenditure be eliminated at least for the war's duration, preferably until the cost of the war has been largely met.

When local governments are guilty of increasing expenditures, at such a time as this; when salary rates are increased and pay rolls enlarged for political reasons, they are guilty of crass betrayal of the public which has placed them in office and to whom they must ever be responsible.

Voters should inform themselves, from public audits and other reliable sources, as to the degree of economy exercised in public affairs and, if unnecessary expenditures have been made, the officials responsible should not be returned to office when asking for re-election.

The PT Boats

When the history of the war is written, not the least chapter will be that devoted to the work of the mosquito boats of the United States Navy. Other navies have them, the Germans, the British and the Italians particularly. But none have used them with the daring and the skill of the officers and men of our Navy.

The record of the PT flotilla in Philippine waters is little short of remarkable. They have attacked and damaged or sunk vessels as large as cruisers, costly vessels the Japanese cannot afford to lose. They have darted into heavily-protected Subic Bay to sink supply ships. In no small measure, they kept large Japanese vessels from the Bataan coast, and, then, when the final sad chapter of that epic was written, they escaped through enemy-infested waters to new bases far to the south. Their sting again was felt by the Japanese off Cebu. Then, too, it must not be forgotten that one of these little boats took MacArthur on the first hazardous leg of his trip to Australia.

The initial successes in waters ideal for their use undoubtedly will be followed by others as the tide of the offensive begins rolling. Manned by men of the caliber of Lieutenant John D. Buckley, commander of the Philippine squadron, they will many times prove more valuable than larger vessels in demoralizing an enemy little liking the daring, slashing sting of their attack.

THE WAR THAT NEVER ENDS

(From The Athens Banner-Herald)

No official communique was issued. Headline writers almost passed it up, unnoticed. But America has scored an important victory against a hated enemy, an enemy that has struck even at the President.

The good news comes from Dr. E. C. Rosenow, Mayo Foundation bacteriologist, who reports that 25 years of research on the cause of infantile paralysis has been rewarded with the scientific proof that the minute, visible streptococcus germs, not an invisible virus, as commonly accepted, are the causative organism.

The doctor now proposes to use an antiserum, already perfected, and possible skin tests to detect the disease in its earliest stages. He has practical proof in the use of the antiserum on 2,000 human patients, with marked mortality reduction.

The major victory, yet to be fully confirmed by subsequent practice, should not go unsung. Infantile paralysis needs no bombing planes, no saboteurs to strike at your own home. The war of science against this enemy goes on, in time of peace and in time of war.

MYSTERY CONTINUES

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Mystery continues to shroud the source of the bombing attack leveled on Japan's principal cities. The Japs have made so many conflicting statements about it that it is evident they don't know any more than anybody else.

First they said the planes came from aircraft carriers, a general assumption made in this country after news of the raid was flashed from Tokyo. Later they contradicted themselves several times.

An Italian newspaper printed stories that the bombers came from secret bases in Russia. London papers speculated that they took off from the Aleutian Islands, left their visiting cards at Tokyo, Kobe, Yokohama and Nagoya, then flew on to prearranged bases in the interior of China.

Either one is a possibility, depending on the type of planes used. About the only thing over which there is no dispute is that they were American planes. The deep look of inner satisfaction of the faces of officials of the War and Navy departments here is evidence enough of this.

We may not get the real story for a long time. So long as the Japs themselves don't seem to know, it would be foolhardy to tell them. Let them suffer the jitters for a while guessing. Besides, we might want to pull the same trick again soon. Why put them on notice of the direction the raid took? Right now they apparently don't know whether it came from the north, east, south or west. It may have started in Russia, China, the Aleutians, or from carriers at sea.

REASON FOR SECRECY If the attack was carrier-launched it would probably be many days yet before the Navy would be in position to announce details. For various strategic reasons, we never announce raids at sea until the surface mission taking part has returned to base, refueled, resupplied and again started on the prowl. To do so would be to provide valuable information to the enemy. Even the information that a battleship is at some port is highly important during times of war.

So long as the Japs are in doubt, we must wait the prescribed length of time before announcing anything, even though carriers had nothing to do with the Tokyo assault. If we released the information right away, for example, that would indicate that the planes had flown on into China or Russia.

What we are likely to do is wait for enough time for a carrier mission to return to Pearl Harbor and again put out to sea before issuing an official communique. That would leave the Japs as confused as ever. We may have other raids before then.

PLAUSIBLE SUGGESTION One plausible suggestion now heard in naval circles is that the bombings. Reports that some of our B-25s, large medium bombers, took part in the raid, makes this theory tenable. They are believed to be too large for launching from a carrier.

The B-25s have a range of 3,000 to 4,000 miles, depending on the bomb load. From the Nanking area, which is still in Chinese hands, to Tokyo the distance is only some 1,200 miles. Thus a round-trip flight of only about 2,500 miles would be involved. We have plenty of stuff that is capable of that.

On the other hand, the distance from Dutch Harbor in the Aleutian chain to Tokyo is 2,850 miles. Add 1,200 to that—the distance on into China—and you are above the load factor of this type of plane.

If the planes were launched from carriers, of course, you can figure on any kind of distance from the Japanese coastline. It would all depend on how close the carriers ventured. Once the ships launched their air armadas, it wouldn't be necessary for them to stand by waiting for the return. They would be expected to turn homeward in a hurry, leaving the bombers to proceed on into the Asiatic mainland.

FLY 'EM ANYWHERE As to how the B-25s may have gotten to China in the first instance, assuming the Tokyo attack was launched from there, that is an easy hypothesis. They are such great ships that, for some time now, we have been flying them all over the world. The public has no idea of the extent of our military air travels. Daily we are flying them to England, to Ireland, across the South Atlantic from South America to Africa, thence on across Africa to India—and China.

Military emergency has made a daily necessity of air achievements which only a few years ago would have been sensational. Every day we are flying from 15 to 20 of these great bombers across the seas—some as far away as Australia. When the final story is written, it will be an eye-opener on American aeronautical ingenuity.

Chances are that we have a sizable fleet of these bombers in China already—those we were able to spare from other shipments to England and Russia.

Whether the Tokyo attack was land-based or carrier-launched, we may with reasonable certainty expect a repetition of similar raids from China in the future.

LET THEM WORRY In the meantime, it is best to leave the Japs wrestling with the jitters. The surprise blow of last week shows they are jittering plenty.

The whole incident is a complete justification for the Navy's policy of silence. Anxious as the public is for all the intimate details, we can suppress our curiosity until the time is ripe for revealing the facts.

About

A Motto.

In his column of Wednesday morning Louie Newton quotes, or tells, a part of the story of "Ich Dien," which appears on the crest of the Prince of Wales to this day. According to the whole incident, the story as told by Dr. Newton was slightly incorrect, and, anyway, he missed one of the most significant points altogether.

As he told it, it was at the Battle of Agincourt, in France, when a vastly outnumbered English army under the Black Prince, defeated a French force three times as large.

The Black Prince was the eldest son of the English King and was called because he always wore black armor. Dr. Newton said it was after the battle the Black Prince found the blind John of Bohemia, chained to two soldiers, one on either side. And found on the blind warrior's shield the motto, "Ich Dien," meaning, "I Serve."

According to my history, the blind John did go into battle so chained, by his own request, in order that he might be led into the thick of the fighting. But the Black Prince saw that while the fighting was still in progress—not after the battle—and was so stricken with admiration at the courage of a blind man he ordered John of Bohemia captured alive at any cost. This was done and, afterwards, when John of Bohemia asked about what ransom he must pay for his freedom, the Black Prince replied all he would take was the motto, "Ich Dien," which he admired greatly because it typified what should be the ambition of all good princes, "I Serve."

So the Black Prince adopted the motto for his own coat of arms and sent blind John of Bohemia safely home.

That is the story as I know it.

The Prince of Wales.

I suppose everyone knows the title "Prince of Wales" is the hereditary title of the first born son of each British King. It has been that way for eight or nine centuries.

This is how it started: Wales had been a separate country from England. The Welsh were a magnificent, independent race of people and they had fought gloriously against several English Kings. As a matter of fact, they never were completely defeated and forced to surrender.

King died and the war was one left to lead them. So Edward I of England arranged a parley, under flag of truce. And there he promised them, if they would become part of the united country of England, under the English crown, he would give to them the prince of their own, born in Wales and who spoke no word of English.

(Welsh, incidentally, is one of the oldest languages in the world to learn. It is said you have to eat, thoroughly masticate and swallow at least two large size woolen blankets if you would become proficient at the pronunciation of Welsh words.)

The English leaders accepted Edward I's proposal. He produced their Prince. His own first born son, who had been born in Wales while his wife followed him to the wars, one month before. Naturally, a month-old baby could speak not one word of English.

And, ever since, the eldest son of each King of England has been the Prince of Wales.

The hereditary crest of the Prince of Wales is the three feathers, ermine, and the motto, "Ich Dien," taken so long ago by the Black Prince at Agincourt from the blind John of Bohemia.

That Black Prince, even in those primitive days, had the right idea as to the duties of princes or leaders. To serve their people. He was 'way ahead of his time, but perhaps that illustrates one of the reasons why the English-speaking peoples have ever been the champions of individual rights and the great propagators of democracy.

It's Often A Bluff.

Wonder how many married men have come home to their wives, since December 7, cussin' and denouncin' their local draft board for calling them into the service ahead of young fellows with no dependents?

Two Decisions

NEW YORK, April 22.—The so-called labor press of the country, consisting of many small and generally scurrilous publications, most of them conducted for the financial and political profit of the union bosses, is greeted with jubilation at a decision by the New York court of appeals that unions may sue for libel. Up to now, however, I have seen no similar rejoicing in any of these sheets over another decision, by a state court in California, that unions and obviously also their publications, may in turn be sued for libel by those whom they delight to defame. I venture to believe that this one will be stoutly resented as another low blow at labor's rights.

The New York decision was no surprise to me because I had always assumed that a union had personality, so to speak, and could punish and obtain redress from anyone who slanders its fair name. That is why I have always been very careful to stay within the bounds of probable fact in my discussion of unions and those vicious personalities engaged in the union racket who exploit, persecute and rob the common American worker with the connivance of the national government.

I weighed my facts well before I declared that the American Federation of Labor had among the roster of union officials in its component groups the nucleus of a first-class rogues' gallery and that it had become a front for thieves and underworld gangsters. I was ready to prove that such crooks as Umbrella Mike Boyle, of the Chicago electricians; Browne, Bioff and Scallie and the degenerate Brother Jones, of Akron, Ohio, among many others, were members of the official family in the organization; that Brother Will Green had publicly and officially defended Browne after his character had become notorious throughout the country and that he had vouched for Brother Scallie, a Capone gangster of the most obvious sort. I was ready to prove that Brother Scallie had done time for seducing and exploiting a young girl as her bargaining agent.

Free Press I have always held Responsibility that responsibility accompanies the privilege of a free press and just naturally assumed that anyone who bore false witness against a union must be liable to punishment. Similarly, I entertained a conviction or superstition that a union or its official publication should be held responsible for false and defamatory representations against innocent individuals, but realized that the cause of the suit was never invoked, there must be some artificial verboten. In the California case an indignant businessman brought suit against a local union for falsely declaring that his place of business was unfair to labor and recovered $100, a nominal but significant victory. Still I would not be confident that this decision would be sustained in the United States supreme court for I have just refreshed my memory on the famous Frankfurter decision in the case of the carpenters' union and find no encouragement for victims of wanton injury at the hands of liars on the union side.

In that case, as Justice Frankfurter blandly conceded, the carpenters and machinists both reached an agreement with Annheuser-Busch of St. Louis over the division of certain jobs among their respective memberships, promising to submit all disputes to arbitration. The carpenters, however, repudiated the agreement after the manner of aggressor nations, and when Annheuser-Busch, in turn, refused to repudiate its agreement with the machinists, the carpenters not only struck but, by circulars and through their official journal, started an injurious boycott of the false representation that the company was unfair.

Paradoxical According to Frankfurter's own statement of the case, it was the carpenters' union which plainly was unfair and the company is plainly acquitted of unfairness. Nevertheless, Justice Frankfurter held that "the pickingeting of Annheuser-Busch with signs to indicate that Annheuser-Busch was unfair to organized labor" was "a familiar practice in these situations" and that "the facts here charged constitute lawful conduct under the Clayton act."

In other words, but not substantially different words, the highest court in the United States here pointedly refrains from condemning an injurious slander of an innocent victim by a union and holds that, in the Clayton act, at least, the United States congress consciously intended to place in the hands of unions the weapon of defamation with which to beat into submission persons with whom they have already, and admittedly, broken faith.

Possibly your congressman and senators would like to correct Mr. Frankfurter's impression that it ever was the intention of congress to legalize defamation of whomsoever by a special group.

BALLET AND BURSITIS

Tuesday evening, before the opera, I met a specialist at a little pre-opera party. As soon as I could get in a word, I asked him if he knew anything about bursitis. Mine in my right shoulder was hurting rather badly.

When I mentioned bursitis he beamed happily as if I had mentioned an old friend. "Has it a year and a half myself," he said. "There isn't anything you can do for it. I went to Mayo and Hopkins and they said bursitis cures itself. How bad is yours?"

"Well," I said, "I have difficulty buttoning my shirt and tying my tie."

"Man," he said, "I couldn't even flick ashes off a cigar. Had to keep my arm at my side. Couldn't raise it. Hurt all the time. It's interesting. You can experiment. Take B-I, use heat and massage. They won't help, but it is interesting. Nothing helps," he said, beaming happily. "Nothing."

"So," I went on to the opera. The shoulder was hurting steadily, but I did find something which helped. That was some of the singing and the ballet. I think the ballet stopped it best of all.

In fact, when Ruthana Boris, the prima ballerina, was on, my shoulder did not hurt at all. If I can find that specialist again I am going to recommend that he gather up all patients suffering from a bursitis and have them go sit and watch Miss Boris dance. I suffer from a mild case of balletomania, anyhow, and Miss Boris was so good she made the evening a success. "Carrots" would not be nearly so good were it not for the ballet. Also, Miss Boris and the ballet are good for bursitis.

NORMAN CORDON Norman Cordon also was good for my bursitis. I remembered him from Vanderbilt University days. I was doing a few chores for the Nashville Banner in those days and also going to school.

He recalled a piece I did about a school musical in which he had a part and in the piece I suggested that he was so good he probably would be an opera star if he tried. He did. And he kept the piece in a book and it was a great relief to hear about it, as most of the predictions one makes have a habit of coming back home to roost.

He has a magnificent bass voice, and I know that when I hear him in "The Barber" my bursitis will quit hurting as long as he sings.

Cordon is a southern contribution to grand opera and he is going places, symbolically and literally. He goes to South America for three months as a representative of this country in an exchange of artists' ideas. It is a part of the effort at improving the understanding of the two sections of this part of the world. It is a most excellent idea, too. Not all our tourists produce much understanding.

THE OPERA CROWD Crowds always interest me. Any crowd. Fight crowds are fascinating. It is an experience to be in a tight crowd of 60,000 or so and to hear the blood lust in their voices when one of the fighters is bloody, being hammered hard and on the edge of a knockout. That's something.

The opera crowd was good to see. There were the young girls, not quite in their teens or perhaps just in them, self-conscious in new evening dresses and flowers. There were a few haughty matrons, overdressed and anxious to be seen. There were young couples holding hands. There were soldiers and sailors and marines in the crowd. There were patient husbands, not liking it and wishing mightily for home and bed.

Those who really know music can be spotted, too. There are many of them who know the librettos line for line and they have a look none of the others has.

Opera has a long and honorable history. The old New Orleans French opera was famous years before New York enjoyed it. All the great capitals of Europe have enjoyed it and many of the nations subsidized it.

If the war goes on another year, there may not be opera or ballet or baseball or many other things before it is done. But it will come back, and it may be the war will take a turn for the better. One cannot believe, somehow, that Germany can keep going under the corrupt leadership of the group which drove her and the world to war.

Well, it is time to take some more B-I and some more heat. But, as the specialist said, nothing helps bursitis. It is just interesting to try. I will have to wait for the ballet again.

March 16.—Another tanker. The Americans have a device, patented a few years ago, that would enable them to build torpedo-proof tankers, but that would hurt the firms building old-style ships.

March 17.—Got a ship loaded with tanks and guns. Still keeping up our record of a ship a day. Got this one at 10 p. m. These kind Americans keep their coastal cities brightly lighted, and ships hugging the shore are silhouetted against the light. They make nice targets.

Wonder what's become of my partner in a commercial venture which, as I assured him, would bring in sums so vast that the government would take three-fourths of it in excess profit tax.

He seems to have lost faith in the idea—if he ever had any.

He is proprietor of a hotel. A good hotel with a dance orchestra and a doorman out in front and a bar and all that a guest's heart could desire—except one item. That's what gave me my idea.

"I want to share this bonanza with you," I explained, having chased him into his holy of holies on the mezzanine. "Because your hotel gave me the inspiration and because you, as a hotel man, are in touch with the trade and can put over the idea of our getting royalties."

"And what is this idea?" he asked, quite naturally.

I made sure the door was closed and nobody listening at a keyhole and spoke in a low tone and said: "Just this," I explained, "colossal. Now, sit tight and don't faint."

"My idea is to install a hook inside every bathroom. Perhaps, after hotel keepers have grown accustomed to the innovation, two hooks. One for pajamas, one for a bathrobe."

"Is there no such hook in your bathroom?" he inquired.

"Have you ever entered the bathroom of one of your hotel rooms?" I parried.

"No," he returned. "I leave that to the maids."

No Hooks Anywhere

"The maids, I assume," quoth I, "rarely have occasion to bathe in a guest room. If they did, I suppose they'd remove their clothing. And where would they put it? Where I put my pajamas. On the steam radiator. I might have hung them over the rail around the top of the shower bath, but I've tried that. And they always fall into the tub."

Warning to my subject I explained that I had remained overnight in many of the finest hotels America and my expense account would warrant. And in none of the bathrooms was a hook for pajamas.

The architects may have assumed that a guest strips to the buff in his bedroom and then enters the shower. But, as I pointed out, that might be embarrassing. Often he is entertaining guests who decline to get out in time for him to sweeten himself up for the evening. They are too busy sweetening themselves up for the evening—with his bourbon.

"I will look into this matter at once," said my hotel host. "It seems to have possibilities."

I have heard nothing further from him. But an hour later, when I returned to my suite there were two hooks screwed to the door of the bathroom—on the inside. I won that much.

I do not care to give the name of this hotel. But if you travel around the south and will be careful to ask for Room 628 you are sure to get it, sooner or later.

And if it's the right hotel you'll find two hooks in the bathroom. Unless they were removed after I'd checked out—in order to keep guests from getting foolish ideas of luxury.

Rhyme Which Don't

In the Satevepost—a dime now instead of a nickel and a bit fatter—is a poem by Richard Armour which winds up by attempting to rhyme quinary with laundry.

Mr. Armour breaks into the Post quite often and therefore must belong to the big league. Such contributors have special privileges. If Odgen Nash sent me a poem (without charge) I'd print it even if he rhymed psychological with ammunition.

Phyllis McGinley, also a Post versifier, could split her infinitives and mix her metaphors as often as the spirit moved her.

But a minor poet must observe the conventions. My home product, Mr. Ollie Reeves, is still in the lesser league, though he has made the Satevepost several times—and been paid for it. So I have to watch Ollie's verse with a critic's eye lest he stumble over his poetic feet and force a rhyme where there isn't any. But I'll admit that's a rare accident.

This column receives quite a lot of poetry, bad or worse, all unsolicited. It is rarely used for various reasons. I did print one yesterday, by Charles S. Reid, of Woodbury. First, because I liked it, and second, because he included a three-cent stamp, which I needed at the moment. By printing his poem I filled a bit of space on a dull day and at the same time acquired a stamp. There is considerable Scotch in me—though not at this moment.

But as a general policy I don't require poetry for this column, because it doesn't fit the general scheme. I do like light, topical verse, if it is good. Which contributions rarely are.

They come from proud parents of precocious pets, from old ladies with a hand pencil, a scrap of soft paper and an inspiration. Occasionally from a businessman who feels impelled to put his thoughts into rhyme or approximately so.

The principal trouble is that few contributors appear to possess a sense of rhythm or a knowledge of what constitutes a rhyme. Two words rhyme or they don't. There's no halfway. And the test of rhythm is: Can you sing it? I don't mean you must have a voice like Caruso's. But if you can hum it and make the lines come out even then you have rhythm.

Minor ear operation on Yvonne brings the Dionne Quintuplets back into the spotlight of the daily press.

They were miracle babies and cute kids and I, in company with all the world, loved them on the screen.

But all things come to an end. Even "Able's Irish Rose" and "Tobacco Road." The public just can't keep her up year after year in something that offers little new.

Wonder when the next real Dionne story will break. When they are graduated from high school? Or when one of them is married? Let's hope the five won't be broken up any other way.

Dorothy Thompson Says:

Willkie Scored Chicago Victory

The Republican National Committee actually was called together in Chicago by a little group of diehards, who would have liked to prepare the way for scuttling, or seriously hampering our foreign policy, in the morning glow of hope created by the victory, in the Illinois primaries, of the ineffable C. Wayland (Curly) Brooks and under the aegis of the America Firster, Colonel McCormick, of the Chicago Tribune.

Ninety members met and the object of the meeting was to frame a resolution that would be gilded o'er with the tinsel of patriotism and "all out for victory," but which would nevertheless leave an ace in the hole in case political opportunities should shift.

Mr. Willkie, of whom it has been said by Quentin Reynolds—that "he may be a man without a party, but he is not a man without a country," wanted a powerful, absolutely committal resolution, that would pledge the Republican party to complete collaboration for the war effort, and to an abandonment of isolationism, once and for all, in peace as well as in war.

Attitude of Country.

As things stood Monday, it looked as though he would be defeated, both in the subcommittee of seven, and on the floor.

But Mr. Willkie won. The resolution adopted was, to all intents and purposes, the one Mr. Willkie himself submitted. And he won, just as he won the Republican nomination, because Mr. Willkie's attitude is the attitude of the country and of the mass of Republican voters. Not Mr. McCormick, nor "Curly" Brooks, nor confidence in senators and representatives depends upon two things: the policy of the parties, and the personal character and ideas of the representatives.

In the first question, we are in a happier position than we were last week, for we have a clear-cut party pledge.

But the second question leads us to the problem of personal political leadership.

Political leadership is foresight, and not hindsight. Political leadership is characterized by the power to form public opinion, and not to bow to it. Mr. Willkie is, in this respect, a genuine political leader. He does what he thinks must be done, and creates the political following to do it.

This resolution represents the will of the mass of Republican voters and is a prescription for candidates.

But confidence cannot be created by mere admission of a change of heart. Those who have shown no foresight in the past are not likely to show it in the future, for foresight is an intellectual and spiritual gift, and cannot be created by the acceptance of a resolution.

Therefore, it is the business of the American voter, both in the congressional primaries and in the elections, to consider thoughtfully and well the individual candidates in both parties, both on their past records and on the degree of their present seriousness. Did they believe that the Neutrality Act would keep us out of war? Did they vote for Lend-Lease, or the fortification of Guam, or for the Selective Service Act? Have they supported appropriations for our armed services? Have they been intimately associated with any of our quasi-Fascists? Are they ready to outlaw now our quasi-Fascists?

These are questions to ask of candidates of both parties, for no party has a monopoly of foresight or character.

The American people are constantly asking: "What further can we do?" One thing we must do is to exercise our rights and duties of citizenship, as voters, with the utmost thoughtfulness and care in these elections.

The records on candidates can be obtained from such organizations as the League of Women Voters, whose national address is 461 Fourth avenue, New York.

"Why didn't I think of using the Bus?"

IT'S Easy TO SHOP BETWEEN TEN and FOUR

At First Aid classes and Red Cross sewing rooms, at bridge tables and garden clubs—in fact, wherever women gather—you hear this expression: "Why didn't I think of using the bus!"

The reason is clear. They didn't know the buses and trolleys have plenty of room during the preferred shopping hours—from ten to four. They thought the cars were always crowded. That's only natural. Trolleys and buses are crowded during the morning and evening rush hours—much more crowded than they used to be—for two main reasons. First, there has been a great increase in riders; second, new buses and trolleys are very hard to get. This situation results from war conditions.

Fortunately, it does not apply to the midday shopping hours. Between ten and four, cars are not crowded. There are usually seats for everybody. Riding is comfortable and convenient.

Have you been staying at home because you thought the trip would be too hard, or take too long? Have you been doing without things you really needed simply because you hesitated to visit the downtown stores? Then ask your friends how easy it is to save tires and gasoline by using public transportation. Remember, ten to four are the shopping hours. (From 9:30 on, the cars are less crowded.) You, too, will be saying, "Why didn't I think of using the bus!"

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

CACTUS & COCKLEBURR.

"Say, folks, but ain't Mary and Willie Marsh's boy a grand looking sight in his Army uniform?"

Miss Sally

was standing on the porch of the general mercantile establishment of Cactus & Cocklebur.

And then Cactus turned to the crowd, his wrinkled old face wet with tears, and his tousled white hair summoning everyone to strictest reverence for what he might have to say.

"I reckon that Mary and Willie Marsh is their happiest two peep in their settlement terday. Ther good Lawd didn't see fit ter give me 'n' Martha a boy, 'n' all uv our days we've tried in our humbl way ter do whut littul we could fer ther boys uv our neighbors. Billy has always been one uv ther boys we loved. 'N' here he is, givin' uv his best ter ther Nashun along with ther uther finest boys u this 'n' every neighborhood in ther land. I say, God bless Billy, 'n' God bless all ther men uv ther Army 'n' ther Navie 'n' the fightin' Marines. Here, sum on in ther store, Billy, I've got sumthin' fur yer."

Mr. Cocklebur, who had been sitting in his rolling chair on the porch, enjoying the warm, spring sunshine, and talking with the farmers as they had come for their Saturday afternoon shopping, turned to the crowd, and said:

"My friends, you have just heard what Cas said about Billy Marsh, and about all the men in the armed forces. I know how deeply your hearts have been touched. Your eyes reveal it. Like Cas and Martha, we were not blessed of God in having a son, but Millie and I are trying to do our part for somebody's boy by buying war bonds and saving stamps. How many of you have bought a bond? How many of you have given to the Red Cross? Come, let's give again! Get a pencil and pad, Sally, and make a record of these purchases and gifts. Thank you, and God bless you all."

Cactus was busy back in the warehouse checking the kerosene truck that had rolled up to refill the big barrels for another week's supply of illumination for Channel Cat Crossing, Chiger Ridge, Lost Mountain, Deep Valley, and other communities served by Cactus & Cocklebur. Just at the height of the welcoming on the part of everyone to Billy, Cactus walked out on the store porch

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then get bile up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "top and up."

Get a package today. Take as directed. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. 10¢ and 25¢.

Crackers Win; Play Vols Here Tonight

Pitcher Cortes Is Optioned To Savannah

Nashville Begins 5-Game Stay in Night Opener.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

Those Nashville Vols come to town today through the courtesy of those Chattanooga Choo-Choos who railroaded them out of Englewood, and Larry Gilbert's lads are only too glad to help Atlanta put on its nocturnal opener at 8:30 tonight at Ponce de Leon park. The Crackers should be a relief to the Tennesseans who have just dropped three straight to Sparky Olsen's "Million-Dollar Kids."

Lefty Vito Tamulis, who silenced the Richards' Rifles in an early season tilt in Nashville, is expected to be on the mound to attempt to break the losing streak of the invaders. Manager Richards is expected to nominate old Pepperbox Rambert, his most reliable chunker, to toe the slab for the homebats.

Several changes were made in the Cracker roster yesterday. Rene Cortes, fast ball right-hander who was with the team all last year, has been sent to Savannah of the Sally League on option. Cracker President Earl Mann announced last night. Emil Lochbaum, league leading pitcher last season, was put on the active list and pitched a winning game against Knoxville yesterday.

Lochbaum has been ill all spring, but showed his old-time cunning as he outsmoked the Smokies until he tired in the ninth inning and gave way to relief pitcher Nowak. Lochbaum kicked

Tire Problem Solved 4 Ways

MIAMI, Fla., April 22.—(P)—Miami's five leading amateur golfers have solved one tire problem.

Earl Christiansen and Harvey Draughon, the golfing policemen; Ralph Stephens, Bill Stembler and Herb Jones wanted to enter the state amateur tournament at Ponte Vedra Beach, near Jacksonville.

None of them wanted to use his own tires, even after they had agreed to make the trip in one car.

They solved it this way: Each will contribute one tire off his own car and they'll go together in Stevens' car. For using his auto, Stevens will contribute only the spare.

in with a triple to abet his fine mound performance. Claude Swiggert, youthful outfielder who also was on the suspended list while essaying to convince Manager Richards of his prowess, likewise was put on the active list and will patrol left field until Buddy Bates gets over his case of "miseries." Wee Pete Thomassie has moved over from left to Bates' slot in center.

Earl McGowan has been sent to the Greenville club of the Sally League on option. His departure leaves the Crackers without the services of a single left-handed pitcher.

The Vol-Cracker opener tonight will be the first of five games between the two nines here. The second game Friday also will be played at night. A single tilt will begin at 3:30 Saturday afternoon, and 2 o'clock Sunday is the time designated for Mr. Ump to yowl. "Play Baw-l-l-l-l," for the first time of a Sabbath double-header.

President Mann has designated Tuesdays and Fridays as ladies' nights this year, and boys under 12 will be admitted free. Service men in uniform are given admittance sans any charge whatsoever at all Cracker home games.

Scott Overrules

Lookout Protest.

Trammell Scott, president of the Southern Association, overruled last night a protest by the Chattanooga club of the second game of a double-header played there last Sunday and won by the Atlanta Crackers, 6 to 3.

By JACK TROY

Propaganda

One reads from time to time that a football team should go out of its way to be mediocre in the 1942 season. In these words, but the meaning is plain. The implied thought is that it would bring criticism on the college that might bob up with a championship outfit.

Now this is propaganda of the rankest sort, especially when it is directed at a college whose team for 1942 was conceived as long ago as, say, 1939 or 1940.

Until football is crossed off the sports calendar for the duration, a team should do as well as it can. There is no effort being made, except where the well being of players is concerned, to seek any deferment.

Generally, it is conceded to be to a player's advantage, as well as his country's, to obtain as much education as possible. The same applies to non-participating students. But they don't get the publicity.

Until a football player graduates and automatically goes into some branch of the service he may be expected to try to become an All-American as he would in normal times. Would Uncle Sam like for him to pull his punches in battle?

Coach Due Credit

There is another way of looking at it, too. Members of a first-class football team will make far better than average soldiers or sailors or marines.

Among other things, they have a lot of confidence in their ability to win. They are accustomed to hitting hard—and for keeps.

A coach in 1942, who happens to have a team that is superior to most of the teams on the schedule, doesn't deserve being put on a spot. In reality, he's due credit for his accomplishments. And when it is suggested that he might be smart if he insisted on holding the scores down, just mark that off as a rival's wishful thinking.

How can a coach tell a football team to hold down a score? He might have the team kick on first down all afternoon, but what, then, of the paying customer? They didn't shell out three bucks to see a bunch of athletes just going through the motions.

Either there will be football on the level—or there shouldn't be any football at all.

An athlete who doesn't play for keeps won't be much of a help in the war effort.

In Short

Hudson Edwards, a Georgia Tech athlete of the '29-'31 era, has just received his papers and soon will enter the service as a lieutenant (junior grade) in the Coast Guard. Edwards temporarily abandons a promising career as a theater manager in Savannah.

A couple of old fishing companions, Colonel Archie Johnson and Eldon Wright, don't waste their time in the summer. They fish in the winter and early spring and rarely wet a hook after March.

Alex Cassels, valued secretary-treasurer of the University of Georgia Club of Savannah, composed a clever parody on the popular song, "Deep in the Heart of Texas," for the annual dinner. It dealt, of course, with Georgia's victory over Texas Christian.

The doorman at the Savannah hotel is named Champion, and he may well be rated one of the champion sports boosters of the coastal region. His favorites are Georgia's Bulldogs, the Savannah Indians and the Atlanta Crackers.

Coastal Woods and Waters, Inc., with members in six counties, is one of the foremost conservation groups in the south. J. R. Howard is temporary chairman. This Sunday members and guests from Chatham, Bryan, Liberty, McIntosh, Glynn and Camden counties will gather on Black-beard Island and combine business and pleasure. Conservation will be the theme of the outing.

Druid Hills Women To Hold Visitors' Day

The Druid Hills women golfers will hold visitors' day Friday and all club members are invited to play as proceeds will go to the Red Cross.

Many interesting features are planned and a large crowd is expected. Golfers are urged to play this week as the women will not meet next Friday on account of the annual Druid Hills Dogwood tournament.

Nick Letchas, Browne Furnish Big Fireworks

Lochbaum Hurls Well To Cap '42 Debut, 12 to 8.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 22.—

A wild second inning which found them scoring seven times on four singles gave the Atlanta Crackers a 12-to-8 decision over the Knoxville Smokies here today in the last game of the series.

The Smokies made a mild rally in the ninth to score five times but the Crackers had built up too much lead.

Today's victory gave the Crackers a two-to-one edge for the first series between the clubs this season.

Emil Lochbaum, pitching his first game of the season, was master of the situation all the way until the ninth when he showed signs of tiring. He was replaced by Nowak.

There was too much power in the bats of Earl Browne and Charley Letchas for the Smokies. Browne had four hits in five official trips while Letchas had a single, double and home run in five efforts.

The Crackers were easy meat for the first frame when the side was retired in order but in the second some loose fielding plus some lusty swinging in addition to an error in judgment by a Smokie gardener gave the visitors seven runs.

SMOKIE DEFENSE BLOWS.

Earl Browne led off with a hit off Campanis' glove and Cox singled to left field. Paul Richards popped to the catcher. Swiggert walked to fill the bases. Browne scored with all hands safe when Campanis threw low to second on Blakeney's infield roller. Lochbaum sent a high fly to right field. Swiggert was half way down to third, but Vernon Shetter, Smokie's fly chaser, failed to throw to second. It should have been an easy double play to retire the side. Fisher then missed Thomassie's easy roller for another error.

Letchas singled to send Blakeney home and O'Brien walked to fill the bases. Browne's single scored Thomassie and Letchas. It was seven runs on four hits, three bases on balls and two errors.

The Smokies tallied once in their half of the second. Finley was safe on an error by Cox and scored on a triple by Shetter. Lochbaum's triple in the third came with two out and Thomassie failed to bring him home.

Crip Pelli was batted out of the box in the fourth and Guy Fletcher took over. Letchas started the fourth with a double to left center and scored on O'Brien's single to left before Fletcher took over.

FIRST HOMER.

Al Fisher blasted his first home run of the season over the right centerfield fence in the fifth. He followed Scalzi, who received a free ticket.

Fletcher held the Crackers runless until the eighth when Letchas teed off on the first pitch for a home run over the scoreboard. O'Brien and Richards got walks and Browne a single to fill the bases. Swiggert's foul was taken in by Duke near the fence, with O'Brien tagging up and scoring. Blakeney followed with a double off the rightfield fence, scoring Browne and Richards.

Duke walked to lead off the ninth and when Scalzi singled on the next pitch Lochbaum was relieved by Nowak. Fisher was walked to fill the bases. Baker struck out. Finley walked to send Duke across with a run. Shetter's single scored Scalzi and Fisher. Campanis' hot grounder was batted down and picked up by Browne to make the second out with Finley scoring. Buddy Lewis went in as a pinch hitter and doubled to left field, scoring Shetter. Simmons struck out to end the game. It was five runs on three hits.

Film of Alaska Wilds Is Reportedly an Epic

Jack Lamb, famous sportsman-photographer, came out of the Alaskan wilds a weaker but wiser man. He had read stories by Rex Beach and Service and Curwood, telling of the death-dealing country, but Lamb had to go and see for himself, and it cost him two months in the hospital after it was over.

But he came out with sensational all-color motion pictures of big-game hunting, trout fishing in virgin lakes and rivers; and unforgettable scenes of snowclad mountains and colorful valleys.

The expedition was out of contact with the world for more than two months, and Lamb had plenty of opportunities to record tense hunting scenes of wild caribou, bears, mountain sheep and the thousands of ptarmigan, spruce hens and grouse that swarm over the north country.

The party trekked into the unexplored wilds where generations of birds had lived and died without coming in contact with man. It was almost impossible to make them fly.

Lamb's beautiful technicolor picture of the Alaskan wastelands is an epic on that majestic but brutal country. His show here Friday night in the city auditorium will be his only appearance in Georgia. This show will be entirely free to the public. Due to the great crowd expected, the doors will be open at 7 p. m.

Tech High Golfers Meet GMA Today

Tech High's golfers will go after their fourth win of the year this afternoon in a match with the G. M. A. Cadets at 3:30 on the

John A. White course. The Smithies defeated the G. M. A. team in a previous meeting, 11-7, and are thus far undefeated. Captain George Wilson will be in the number one role for the Smithies, with Gene Spradlin number two, Joe Spradlin number three and Bobby Barnes number four. Mitcham, Petranich, Bird and Fritz are expected to open for the Cadets in that order.

Tobacco Urged As Necessary Wartime Unit

Congressmen Say Processors Face Shortage of Glycerine, Sugar.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP) Two representatives from the south's tobacco growing section asked the Agriculture Department today to declare tobacco a wartime essential commodity.

Representatives Cooley, of North Carolina and McMillan, of South Carolina, made the request on grounds that unless such a step was taken the tobacco industry would face a curtailed supply of glycerine and sugar used in processing tobacco.

They said the industry used 20 per cent of the nation's annual consumption of glycerine, which is sprayed on tobacco to hold it together when it is manufactured into cigars and smoking tobacco. While the industry uses only seven-eighths of one per cent of the annual sugar supply, they expressed concern rationing might reduce the amount to a point where proper processing would be impossible.

In asking for an essential commodity ruling, they said tobacco was used extensively by soldiers and was vital to civilian morale.

Woman Saved From Fire Here

A. S. Eldson, 823 Brookline street, S. W., yesterday was credited by Fulton county police with saving the life of an elderly woman in an early morning fire at Bankhead avenue and Hightower road.

Eldson, police said, was en route home from work as he passed the scene and heard the woman's screams. He leaped from the car, dashed into the flaming house and dragged the woman to safety, police said.

The woman, identified by county police as Mrs. Dory Joiner, 67, was endeavoring to re-enter the house to recover her pocketbook, the officers said.

Mrs. Joiner was treated at Grady hospital for burns on the head and face. The house was destroyed.

DeKalb Hunts Three

Prison Gang Escapes

Three Negroes who fled a DeKalb county prison gang Tuesday afternoon were being sought last night by DeKalb county police.

The Negroes, police said, are believed to have broken into the Bouldercrest Grammar school. The school building was ransacked, police said, but only the janitor's clothing was missing. Three wet, muddy pairs of trousers were left by the intruders.

The trio, listed as Arthur Banks, Howard Adams and J. J. Thomas, were serving time for burglary.

Strict Budget Control Urged By Thrasher

Iron Hand Must Be Kept on Finances, Auditor Says.

A plan for strict control of state finances to withstand uncertainties arising from the war was reported by State Auditor B. E. Thrasher yesterday to the Governor.

Thrasher said operation of the state government on present budgets costs $42,972,183.77 annually. A heavy highway debt plus refunding county highway bonds and redemption of state-owned railroad rental discounts will add to this figure.

The state can absorb a drop in tax receipts without raising taxes,

Thrasher said, "If an iron hand is held on finances so as to keep expenditures to essentials as provided in the current budgets."

He outlined to the Governor in a letter a "cash operating basis" which he recommended be written into law by the next general assembly to insure continued budget control and to pay off standing debts.

Thrasher said the cash operating basis had been achieved by rigid budget control prohibiting any department from making a commitment for expenditure of state funds without setting up a cash reserve.

"The auditor said that for the first time in the state's history, as far as he knew, each department is operating on a cash basis. Only the Highway Department has past indebtedness, and its current expenditures are cash, he added."

"I fully realize," Thrasher wrote the Governor, "that this is a long-range shot but agree with you that if the state does not make plans for several years to come, we will be in a very chaotic condition."

Murphy School Abandonment Plan Favored

Faith Building May Be Used Temporarily for Studies.

Marvin E. Coleman, superintendent of elementary schools, yesterday said much favorable reaction has been received to the proposal to abandon Murphy Junior High school because of its fire-trap construction and relocate the institution at one of the elementary schools in that section of the city.

Many telephone calls from mothers urged serious and sympathetic consideration for the proposal to prevent a possible disastrous fire, Coleman said.

Coleman said the matter probably will be considered by the board of education at its May 12 meeting, but that until then he does not expect any decision. Studies show that the Faith school might be used temporarily to house the Murphy students in a more fire-resistant structure, and that the 500 students now attending Faith can be distributed to other elementary schools in that area of the city.

If Faith school were used it would be a temporary arrangement to continue only until sufficient funds to build a new Murphy school could be raised and until priorities would be able to relocate materials needed, it was pointed out.
